Border row heats up, vehicles on both sides stoned

Leaders take potshots at each other, NCP chief Pawar issues threat to K'taka CM, govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Belagavi/Bengaluru/Mumbai

THE Karnataka-Maharashtra border dispute worsened on Tuesday with pro-Kannada and Marathi activists targeting vehicles from each others' states on either side of the interstate border, even as leaders from both the states took potshots and blamed each other over the situation.

Nationalist Congress Party chief Sharad Pawar, while describing the situation as "worrisome" and that the time had come "to take a stand", told reporters in Mumbai, "Maharashtra has taken a stand of observing patience and it is still ready to do that. But even that has a limit. In 24 hours, if the attacks on vehicles are not stopped then this patience will take a different path and the responsibility will be completely on the Karnataka chief minister and the Karnataka government."

The tension heightened at the interstate border on a day when two Maharashtra ministers, Chandrakant Patil and Shambhuraj Desai, were supposed to visit Belagavi and hold discussions with pro-Marathi groups. Pro-Kannada organisations, in a show of strength, staged demonstrations in Belagavi against the proposed visit of the ministerial delegation from the neighbouring state. However, the Maharashtra ministers cancelled their visit against which Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had threatened legal action if they did come to Belagavi.

The situation turned tense after a video went viral showing activists of pro-Kannada outfit, Karnataka Rakshana Vedike (KRV), pelting stones at vehicles entering Karnataka with Maharashtra registration numbers at the toll gate at Hirebagewadi near Belagavi on NH-48. P4

Inflation, quota to dominate Parl session

PREETHA NAIR & RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE winter session of Parliament that begins on Wednesday can be expected to be stormy as the Opposition is gearing up to put the government on the mat over pressing issues like inflation, unemployment, the China-India border dispute and the economically weaker section (EWS) quota.

At an all-party meet on Tuesday, Opposition parties urged the government to ensure wider discussions over burning issues facing the nation. They also demanded a wider discussion over the alleged misuse of central investigative agencies like the CBI and the ED against the Opposition parties. Leaders from more than 30 parties participated in the meeting. The demand for the women's reservation bill will be back in focus as several Opposition parties that had blocked it earlier now want it introduced and passed in this session itself. The matter was raised by the BJD and drew supported from the Opposition.

23 DAYS, 17 SITTINGS

The session will have 17 sittings over 23 days and will be held in the existing Parliament House. The Budget session is expected in the new Parliament building

As for the legislative agenda, the government is planning to introduce 16 new bills. The Congress intends to oppose three of them — the Biological Diversity (Amendment) Bill, 2021, Multi-State Cooperative Societies (Amendment) Bill, 2022, and Forest (Conservation) Amendment Bill, 2022. It wants them sent to standing committees for vetting.

While the Cooperative Societies (Amendment) Bill seeks to increase accountability and reform the poll process in multi-state cooperative societies, the Forest (Conservation) Amendment Bill aims to remove ambiguities, promote plantation in non-forest areas, and conserve forests.

Morocco win the penalty shoot-out, making it to the quarters for the first time | AP

Morocco create history, plot Spanish elimination

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

TWO of Spain's biggest tournament problems, a lack of goalscorers as well as penetrative passing from midfield, once again let them down in a global event. It went down 0-3 in a shoot-out against Morocco in Doha on Tuesday. The Arab side, who advanced to their first-ever quarterfinal, should also be lauded as they were magisterial at the back. It would be tempting to write off this Spain team but they have a very young squad who are at the beginning of a developmental curve. After that win at the 2010 World Cup, they are yet to go past the Round of 16 stage. For Morocco , this will go down as one of their greatest footballing nights of all time. They make no bones about the way they play — defence first before going forward — and it's paved the way for them. P15

HC okays termination of 33-wk pregnancy

'MOTHER'S CHOICE ULTIMATE'

The court said the right of a woman to terminate her pregnancy has been a matter of debate. This right gives the woman the ultimate choice on whether she wants to give birth.

JAISON WILSON @New Delhi

THE Delhi High Court on Tuesday allowed a married woman to medically terminate her 33-week-old cerebral abnormal foetus, recognising the mother's choice as ultimate decision in such cases.

In the 33-page order, Justice Prathiba M Singh noted there is considerable doubt and risk involved in the unborn child's chances of leading a dignified and self-sustaining life.

"The lingering question as to whether the child would be self-sustaining or not, tilts the court's mind in favour of the plea of the petitioner," the order said.

The court said that it has clearly been able to gauge the mental trauma affecting the parents, their economic and social conditions, and also the fact that the petitioner is taking a cautious and well-informed decision.

"She has understood as to what termination of pregnancy entails at such an advanced stage. This court is convinced that, as a mother, she has weighed the same with the unpredictability and the risks involved, considering the condition of the foetus," it said.

The court also observed that the medical board, in the present case, has not been able to predict or give a categorical opinion as to the degree of handicap or as to the quality of life of the child after birth, with certainty.

In the mind of the court, such unpredictability and risks ought to weigh in favour of the woman seeking termination of pregnancy.

Cops to go after heavy vehicles sneaking into city during peak hrs

Traffic cops identifying lanes from where trucks enter, to ban container vehicles

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

Despite a ban in place, heavy vehicles are entering the city roads through the bylanes. The police have been flooded with complaints on entry of trucks | EXPRESS

THE violation by many heavy vehicles plying on city roads despite a ban in place has caught the attention of the top traffic cop, forcing the department to go back to the drawing board.

The traffic police department is now preparing a list of entry points of trucks in the city. They are also tracking the movement of 7.5 tonne container vehicles during peak hours.

Special Commissioner, Traffic, M A Saleem, admitted to The New Indian Express that trucks were sneaking into city roads from the western side of the city and even from the northern side. He said the vehicles were entering the city roads through the bylanes. The department is now identifying the spots from where the vehicles are entering.

"The list of all small roads is being prepared. We are studying maps and also carrying out a survey on the ground. These vehicles will be stopped and the drivers will be dealt with sternly. The entry of 7.5 tonne Eicher vehicles will also be stopped during peak hours. This will ensure better traffic management," Saleem said.

Agitated by the entry of trucks and goods vehicles, citizens are flooding the police department with complaints. Sunder Lal, owner of a provision store on Magadi Road said: "Despite the ban, trucks continue to move on the main road during peak hours, which is very dangerous for school-going children. This is because the trucks are coming from the lanes in Peenya. This is happening as the traffic policemen are stationed on the main road and not at the entry point near NICE Road. On some days, they are seen freely moving on the main road when the traffic policeman is not around. I have brought this to the notice of traffic police officials, but little has been done."

Saleem said they are getting feedback from citizens on what needs to be done. He also said citizens are also giving details of locations from where the vehicles are entering the city roads. He said all inputs were being collated.

8.30am limit for school buses flayed

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

THE advisory by the Bengaluru Traffic Police prohibiting school buses from plying on city roads after 8.30 am has received flak from parents, schools and educationists.

According to experts, the decision taken to curb the traffic did not take into consideration a 360 degree perspective of schools, parents and students.

The authorities had stated that buses seen on the roads post 8.30 am, when office-going traffic will hit the roads, will be penalised. The department has also asked schools to stop parking school buses on the roads.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (traffic) Kalakrishna Swamy said this will be implemented in all school zones. Entry and exit points will be made wherever possible for easy drop off of students and exit gateways as well where traffic officers will be deployed to ensure that the regular traffic is not disrupted.

D Shashi Kumar, general secretary of the Karnataka Associated Management of English Medium Schools (KAMS), criticised the move, stating that it is only focussed on reducing traffic. Teachers, children and parents will face disruptions if school timings are altered.

Children will also be inconvenienced as they will have to start their day earlier than usual, he added.

Speaking about the traffic issue, a few schools said to avoid the traffic problems, they have withdrawn their bus services and are dependent only on private vans.

Marathahalli bridge underpass to ease traffic

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

Slow-moving traffic on Marathahalli bridge | PRASUNNA KP

TO address traffic issues on Old Airport Road, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike is constructing an underpass at a cost of Rs 6 crore at the railway bridge parallel to the Outer Ring Road in Marathahalli. The crucial underpass project is expected to ease traffic at Kundalahalli and Old Airport Road.

As traffic will take a hit for 20-30 days due to the project, the Traffic Department has appealed to the public to cooperate.

Talking to The New Indian Express, Jayashankar Reddy, Executive Engineer, Road Infrastructure, BBMP, said, "At present, motorists are forced to travel 1.5 km further to take a U-turn to reach Munnekolala and other areas. Once the underpass is completed, motorists can use it at 200 m from Marathahalli junction."

Since one side of the work has already been completed and one main carriageway is open for motorists, the Traffic Department has hinted at slow-moving traffic on this stretch. While the Traffic Commissioner tweeted that motorists will face inconvenience for 20 days, BBMP engineers said the underpass work will take 30 days to complete.

The Palike had faced land acquisition issues as a place of worship was hesitant to part with the land. However, Mahadevapura MLA Arvind Limbavali intervened and sorted the matter.

SWM TENDER CONDITIONS NOT ARBITRARY, SAYS HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

UPHOLDING the conditions laid down by the Bengaluru Solid Waste Management Ltd (BSWML) while inviting tenders for solid waste management, the Karnataka High Court dismissed the petitions filed by prospective bidders AL Satish Kumar and two others for lack of merit.

The court does not find any warrant to interfere with the tender notice as it does not find any of the conditions arbitrary, unreasonable, or that the tender was floated to favour anyone particular, Justice M Nagaprasanna said.

The court noted that as per the clauses of the tender, all SWM vehicles must be BS-VI compatible. No court can find fault with the BSWML seeking vehicles which do not generate pollution in the city. This was also clarified by the BBMP that issued an addendum that the vehicles can be retrofitted with compressed natural gas, it said and observed that if any procedures are required to check pollution in the city, then such procedures are a welcome addition to any tender document.

Referring to the condition that the bidders and consortium members should have experience in collection and transportation of solid waste for 36 months in the last five financial years, the court observed that the work can lead to jeopardising the very concept of keeping the city clean if the bidders do not have experience in managing solid waste.

The court also noted that the contention of the BSWML that one package is restricted to one successful bidder for the reason that it generates healthy competition and they should be able to perform best by keeping the ward clean by managing solid waste. Earlier there were 198 wards, but now the wards have increased to 243. In the past, many tenderers had emerged as successful bidders in more than 5, 10 or 15 packages which led to poor performance of their work. It is therefore for every tenderer to get an adequate opportunity and accountability in keeping the package ward clean, the package is restricted to one and merits acceptance, the court observed.

HC remits BIAL public authority matter to KIC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has directed the Karnataka Information Commission (KIC) to decide afresh whether the Bangalore International Airport Ltd (BIAL) is a public authority under Section 2(h) of the Right to Information Act, 2005.

A division bench of Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty passed the order while disposing the appeal filed by BIAL against the dismissal of its petition by a single judge challenging the KIC order.

The KIC on August 18, 2008, held that BIAL is a public authority under Section 2(h) of the Act and directed the airport operator to furnish the information to applicant Benson Issac, a resident of the city. This was challenged by BIAL before a single judge who dismissed it on February 9, 2010.

Now, setting aside the orders passed by the single judge and the KIC, the bench remitted the matter to the commission to take a fresh decision within three months, considering the criteria laid down by the Supreme Court for the determination of an authority as a 'public authority'.

KAT not to interfere in pleader exam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Administrative Tribunal (KAT) has dismissed the application filed by candidates seeking directions to the government to hold fresh examination for the recruitment of 205 assistant public prosecutors-cum-assistant government pleaders.

A bench of Judicial Member T Narayanawamy and Administrative Member Raghavendra Auradkar dismissed the petition filed by Mahadevi Sarawar and others recently, saying that the applicants have not made out a case necessitating interference by the tribunal.

"It is a policy decision, and prescript and setting up of questions papers lies with the expert body constituted for that purpose. Hence, the challenge by the applicants to the examination process is not sustainable," it said.

The applicants had sought declaring the examination held on July 23 and 24, 2022, as arbitrary and sought directions to the government to conduct fresh examination, pointing out issues regarding the pattern and nature of the question papers.

Lake activist breathes new life into polluted wetland on city outskirts

MOVED by the plight of villagers of Neguli panchayat on Kanakapura Road, who had to breathe foul air due to the polluted Naganayakanahalli Lake, lake activist Revathi Kamath marshalled men, material and resources to clear it up.

Two acres of wetland here had not been desilted for the past three decades, leading to a pervasive stink around the area.

Kamath, 63, said the silt has been removed, and rejuvenation work will start soon. However, she said she is not getting cooperation from Bengaluru Electric Supply Company (Bescom) officials in removing high tension cables across the 7-acre lake, and officials reportedly claimed that they have no funds to do so.

"I have been into lake development for the past six years. Recently, villagers here complained about the bad smell. After I visited the place, I decided to fix the issue. I removed the silt from the two acres of wetland using resources and men. After a few days, the polluted silt dumped at one corner will be removed and rejuvenation work will begin in full swing," she said.

Nearby villagers of Kanakapura have been letting untreated sewage into the water body through rajakaluves, leading to pollution, she added.

She said that though she is getting support from villagers, officials are delaying clearing files related to moving the 11KV cables that pass across the middle of the lake. "The villagers approached Bescom authorities to divert the power cables as it may prove dear to cows and humans who go near the lake. But officials say they don't have the required Rs 4 lakhs for it," rued Kamath.

Reacting to this development, assistant executive engineer of Kaggalipura division Rahesh said the matter has been escalated to the higher authorities due to budget constraints.

Personal involvements which once seemed so necessary and fundamental to your existence may no longer provide you with the stability you desire. It looks as if from now on you will be thrown back on your own resources even more than you ever were in the past.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
Your main concern must be to establish stronger ties with energetic people, especially those younger or less experienced than you. You have sufficient wisdom to see yourself as a teacher in the broadest sense of the word, passing on your wisdom to people who have never come close to the events you have encountered.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
There is almost certain to be a major confrontation over career matters, but the saddest part of the whole sorry incident may be that someone you trusted appears to have let you down. Forgive and forget would seem to be the best answer. It's certainly the most noble way out of a current impasse.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
The fact that other people may be behaving badly doesn't give you the excuse to do the same. You have a reputation to maintain and, to this end, you may keep silent when, all around you, people are discrediting themselves. Your discretion will reflect well on you.

It may take a while for the dust to settle and for you to get back on friendly terms with one or two colleagues and associates. You must be true to your nature and adopt a long-term point of view. If you get your hopes and desires in some sort of order then your behaviour will become more logical.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Where to go from here in your personal plans? A temporary delay may be the answer, although you must be clear in your mind that whatever happens now is bound to have a profound effect. You are at the beginning of a whole new phase of existence. But how and what will not be clear until next month.

AQUARIUS

Man loses three fingers in crude bomb explosion

Explosive was meant to ward off wild boars

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A 45-year-old man has lost three fingers on his right hand after he picked a crude bomb stuffed in dough at Thippasandra off the Magadi main road on Sunday evening.

The victim, Gopalaiah, an agriculturist, is a resident of Siddapura in Magadi taluk. The mishap occurred when he had gone to his field to bring back his cattle. Gopalaiah found a ball-like object close to his cattle and picked it to throw when the crude bomb exploded. He is undergoing treatment at a city hospital.

Miscreants had kept the bomb to ward off wild boars. A case under the Explosives Substances Act has been registered against the unidentified accused. The hospital where the victim was first shifted registered a medico legal case and reported the matter to the police. The complaint has been filed by the victim's 40-year-old wife Hanumakka.

"The couple had gone to the field with their cattle on Sunday morning. Later they returned, leaving the cattle. Gopalaiah went in the afternoon to bring back the cattle. The wife, after hearing a loud noise, rushed only to see her husband injured. Gopalaiah has lost his fingers in the explosion," said the police.

A 59-year-old woman had lost all the fingers on her left hand around five months back in a similar explosion on Hogenakkal Road.

"People of Kodihalli, Kanakapura, Magadi and other surrounding taluks face such problems on a regular basis. Some of them have lost their cows. In a recent incident, a Doberman dog died after it bit a crude bomb stuffed in meatball," the police said.

MID-DEC LAUNCH FOR NAMMA CLINICS

NAMRATA SINDWANI
@ Bengaluru

NAMMA Clinics, the health and wellness centres approved by the state government in 2022, are expected to roll out mid-December in two phases, BBMP Special Commissioner (Health) Dr KV Thrilok Chandra said.

The commissioner held a meeting on Monday to review progress for preparedness of Namma Clinics in Bengaluru. In the first phase, 108 clinics will be launched, and the remaining 153 will be launched soon after. The capital investment in setting up the clinics is around Rs 3 lakh per clinic, according to Dr Thrilok Chandra. The total capital investment, besides the recurring expenses of salaries, comes to around Rs 7.3 crore for setting up the clinics in Bengaluru.

Dr AS Balasundar, chief health officer, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), was also present at the review meeting. He said that civil work for Namna Clinics is complete, and recruitment of staff nurses, lab technicians, doctors and Group D employees for all 243 clinics is complete.

He also said that 150 clinics have been set up in government buildings, and the remaining have been set up in private rented buildings. In the past few weeks, certain complaints were raised by citizens about the poor quality of the clinics. Dr Balasundar addressed the issue and clarified that Namma Clinics were supposed to be sub-centre level health clinics, providing basic primary care. He said clinics were providing primary care or counselling for diseases such as diabetes, mental illness, hypertension or other communicable or non-communicable diseases.

The health department aims to provide easy access to basic healthcare to poor people. BBMP is in tune with the deadlines and is waiting for the health department's order to start the initiative in Bengaluru, the chief health officer stated.

Modi hosp staffers on strike, demand action against ex-trustee

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE employees of MC Modi Eye Hospital in Rajajinagar have gone on an indefinite strike, leaving patients stranded. They are demanding police action against former trustee Subash Modi, his son Mallikarjun and daughter-in-law who allegedly barged into the hospital on Saturday, took away documents and money, locked the gates and prevented them from working. Subash Modi is a relative of hospital founder MC Modi. There are 74 staffers on protest.

Some employees who were running the trust after the demise of Amarnath Modi, son of the founder, in 2014, allege that his cousin Subash Modi was removed from the trust and has no role to play. They say he is interested in the property, and got a court order against the senior staff restraining his entry into hospital. After complaints that Subash Modi was in no way connected to the hospital, a magistrate court ordered the tahsildar to take control of the administration in 2017. "On December 2, Subash Modi barged into the hospital at 6.30 pm with his son Mallikarjun, daughter-in-law Priyadarshini and took away money and documents, and also attacked some staffers, so I filed a police complaint," said Leeladevi Prasad, a member of the hospital trust. "He barged in, claiming he had got an order against four staffers who were against him, and asked them to go out of the hospital and locked the premises. "The staff could not tolerate his behaviour, and have gone on an agitation, demanding action against him for allegedly stealing documents, money and attacking staff members," said the Mahalakshmipuram police . Patients who came to hospital for treatment were sent to other hospitals, he said. Asha, a nursing student, said BSc Nursing exams are scheduled next week, and with the gate being locked, they are worried as their hall tickets are stuck inside the hospital. They are demanding that police break open the lock.

6, including 2 women, held for man's murder

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE police have arrested six persons, including two women, in connection with the brutal murder of a man who was found murdered with his head and face smashed with a boulder multiple times in KP Agrahara police station limits. The police are on the lookout for another woman who is the main accused in the case.

The identity of the victim has been established as Manjunath Balappa Jamakhandi (21), a resident of Badami in Bagalkot district.

The accused are Premavva, Akka Mahadevi, Manjunath, Kiran, Channappa and Kashinath, while a search is on for Saroja, who is absconding.

Sources said Manjunath, who worked as a loan recovery agent, was in a relationship with Saroja. "Their relationship got strained after Manjunath allegedly started harassing Saroja, which drove her to hatch a conspiracy to eliminate him," an officer said, adding that Manjunath was facing assault and attempt to murder cases in Yadgir and Davanagere districts.

Saroja allegedly involved her mother Premavva and other accused persons, who are her relatives.

"As per a plan, Saroja contacted Manjunath and asked him to meet her. On Saturday evening, Manjunath came to the city and checked into a room at a lodge in Gandhinagar before going to meet Saroja in KP Agrahara, where some of the accused resided," the sources said.

"When he went to meet Saroja, the accused ganged up against him and smashed his head and face with a boulder," the source added.

The police established the identity of the deceased when they enquired with a nearby medical store staff who told them that a person had left his mobile phone and did not return. The mobile phone belonged to Manjunath.

After demise of R.Malla Reddy, khatha was mutated in the name of his wife Smt.Lakshmidevi vide MR.T32/2016-17 and her name was entered in RTC. Later on one Kondalappa, Ramakrishna and Sampangi sons of late Munithimmaiah had filed Petition in Dispute No.PTCL.SR(HO)21/2004 before the Court of Asst. TENSION ALONG BORDER AS BELAGAVI REMAINS ON THE BOIL

Trucks, buses attacked in K'taka, Maha; Kannada activists stopped at Hirebagewadi toll plaza | Confident of winning legal battle, says Bommai, even as 2 Maharashtra ministers cancel Belagavi visit | Sena, Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti workers protest in Belagavi, taken into custody, released later

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR AND SUNIL PATIL @ Belagavi

THE tussle between Karnataka and Maharashtra over the boundary dispute took a violent turn on Tuesday as a large number of Kannada activists, who were stopped by the police at Hirebagewadi toll plaza, threw stones on Maharashtra-registered vehicles damaging many of them. The incident occurred when the activists of Karnataka Rakshna Vedike (KRV), headed by its state president Narayanagowda, tried to enter Belagavi via Hirebagewadi toll plaza on Tuesday morning.

Several trucks, bearing Maharashtra state registration, were pelted with stones by Kannada activists soon after they were halted by the police at Hirebagewadi. The activists were on their way to Rani Chennamma Circle in Belagavi city in protest against the possible arrival of two Maharashtra ministers to Belagavi on Tuesday. Meanwhile, in retaliation against the attack on trucks from Maharashtra in Karnataka, Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) workers on Tuesday defaced a few KSRTC buses in Pune. The Pune police claimed to have arrested three in the incident.

2 Maha ministers cancel visit

Two Maharashtra ministers - Chandrakant Patil and Shamburaj Desai - decided on Tuesday against visiting Belagavi due to the escalating tension and the pressure exerted by various Kannada groups and Chief Minister Bommai for the past few days.

Bommai on Monday had said that his government would not hesitate to initiate legal action against the two ministers if they tried to enter Belagavi.

Meanwhile, Kannada activists indulged in verbal clashes with the police at Hirebagewadi and many of them fell down while trying to escape from the police. Several Kannada activists were taken into custody by the police soon after the violence broke out at Hirebagewadi. According to the police, the activists were released later in the day. Speaking to the media near Hirebagewadi, Narayanagowda said Belagavi is an integral part of Karnataka and nobody can take it away. He hit out at the police for stopping Kannada leaders and activists from entering Belagavi and questioned the police as to whether they were ruling the state. He also questioned the way police assaulted Kannada activists and said it was not fair of the police to attack Kannadigas. "I will discuss the issue with Home Minister Araga Jnanendra as to why the police did not allow us to enter Belagavi today. We are not visiting Maharashtra but the city which is in Karnataka," he added.

He also said that he would also hold discussions with ADGP (L&O) Alok Kumar about the alleged assault by police of a student in a college in Belagavi for waving the Kannada flag.

Sena, MES activists taken into custody

Several Shiv Sena activists from Kolhapur, Maharashtra, who thronged the Karnataka check post on the border at Nippani on Monday, were taken into custody when they tried to enter Belagavi district. The activists were angry over the ban on the entry of Maharashtra ministers to Belagavi on December 6 and decided to enter the district from Kugnoli check post at Nippani on Tuesday afternoon.

Meanwhile, members of Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) were taken into custody at the DC's office in Belagavi for raising slogans demanding the merger of Belagavi, Karwar and Nippani with Maharashtra. However, DC Nitesh Patil refused to meet the MES members, who were taken into custody and released later.

Meanwhile, ADGP (L&O) Alok Kumar said proper security arrangements are in place to protect those travelling to Karnataka from Maharasthra.

COMMITTED TO PROTECTING K'TAKA BORDER: CM

CM Bommai said that his government is committed to protecting its border and people, and also taking care of Kannadigas living in Maharashtra, Telangana, Kerala and other states. Bommai said his request to Maharashtra ministers not to visit the state has nothing to do with the Assemb'y polls in Karnataka. The Maharashtra leaders have been nurturing this row for a long time and that is the reason for reactions from both sides, he said. "I have told them that people have cordial relations and we must not disturb it," he added.Karnataka is confident of winning the legal battle, he said. "Maharashtra CM Eknath Shinde had teleph-onic discussion with me. We agreed there should be peace and law and order. Since there is harmonious relations between the people of both the states, there is no change in our stand as far as Karnataka border is concerned. And the legal battle will be pursued in SC," he said.

MAHA DEPUTY CM FADNAVIS DIALS BOMMAI

Amidst the growing tension between Karnataka and Maharashtra, Devendra Fadnavis, Deputy CM of Maharashtra, on Tuesday dialled CM Basavaraj Bommai and insisted that Karnataka government should take steps to prevent any untoward incident in Belagavi. This comes after stones were pelted on buses from Maharashtra in Karnataka. When two Maharashtra ministers insisted on visiting Belagavi it was Fadnavis who had managed to calm them down following a call by Bommai. They had spoken to each other on Sunday as well, sources said. In fact, Bommai and Fadnavis have been in constant touch with each other for the last couple days.

Now, 11 villages in Solapur want to join Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Athani

AS many as 11 villages of Akkalkot taluk in Solapur district of Maharashtra have passed a resolution to join Karnataka.

They blamed the Maharashtra government for failing to provide basic amenities and alleged that they have been deprived of motorable roads, drinking water, education and other facilities. They rued that their villages did not see any development and have remained neglected. However, villages across the border in Karnataka have been developed by their government, they said. The villagers conducted a gram panchayat meeting in their respective villages and passed a resolution to merge their villages with Karnataka. Residents of Alge and 10 more villages of Akkalkot taluk submitted a memorandum to the Solapur district collector recently.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra police have served notices to some Kannadigas residing in those villages warning them of legal action if they stage protests or shout slogans demanding their merger with Karnataka without taking prior permission from them.

Senior Kannada leader Ashok Chandargi said that Kannadigas residing in Maharashtra along the border want to discuss their problems with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. There are about 60 villages in Maharashtra border which want to merge with Karnataka. Chandargi said that they will soon submit a memorandum to the Belagavi DC, SP and City Police Commissioner, urging them to arrange for a meeting with Bommai. Recently, Bommai had claimed that 42 villages of Jatt region in Maharashtra wanted to merge with Karnataka.

AT least five lorries bearing Maharashtra registration plates were pelted with stones, besides their number plates blackened.

KRV activists who targeted five lorries entering the state from Maharashtra were detained and released on Tuesday.

Maharashtra DyCM Devendra Fadnavis said he would wait to see whether action against the people who were involved in attacks on Maharashtra vehicles was taken or not, then decide to apprise Union Home Minister Amit Shah of the situation.

Meanwhile, Maharashtra BJP spokesperson Keshav Upadhye accused Congress in Karnataka of provoking KRV activists into pelting stones at Maharashtra vehicles.

Dalits have forgotten how to protest, says Ambedkar's grandchild

ENS @ Bengaluru

AN estimated 50,000 people took part in 'Cultural Resistance Convention', organised on the occasion 66th Parinirvana (death anniversary) of Dalit icon Dr B R Amdedkar at the National College Grounds in Bengaluru on Tuesday. The speakers at the event condemned the alleged oppressive policies of the government, rising caste-based atrocities in Karnataka as well as the entire country.

Addressing the gathering, Ambedkar's granddaughter Ramabai Anand Teltumbde urged Dalits not to remain mute spectators to the burning issues of the country. She said efforts should be made to protect the Constitution of India which is under threat.

"Ambedkar had given us a message to agitate against injustice, but Dalits have forgotten how to protest these days. For the past 7 to 8 years, our jobs and right for education have been withdrawn. The scholarships for the children of SC/ST students studying at pre-matric level has been stopped. We read these things in newspapers and keep mum", she said, calling upon Dalits to first read the works of Ambedkar. "I am grateful to all of you for your moral support when Anand Teltumde was imprisoned and expect you all, especially the womenfolk, to come out of your comfort zones and struggle against the government. Until we struggle, we will not get our share in power," she said.

Various factions of Dalit Sangharsha Samiti (DSS) came together to organise the event where 15 resolutions were adopted. The resolutions include opposition to 10 per cent quota under Economically Weaker Section (EWS), National Education Policy (NEP), campaign against low conviction rate in cases of atrocities against Dalits as 96 per cent cases still pending before the courts and demand in increase of annual income limit for SC/STs. The anti-cow slaughter and anti-conversion laws should be abolished as they are unscientific, they demanded.

Writer Devanuru Mahadeva, who was supposed to be one of the chief guests, did not turn up citing personal reasons. His family members said he was not keeping well.

MLC VISHWANATH MEETS KHARGE, SIDDU, HINTS AT RETURN TO CONG

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

BJP MLC and former minister AH Vishwanath on Tuesday met CLP leader Siddaramaiah at the latter's Bengaluru residence. This comes two days after Vishwanath met Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge in Delhi, which political pundits believe hints at his return to the Grand Old Party ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls.

The meetings assume significance as both Kharge and Siddaramaiah have to give their nod to Vishwanath if he wants to return to the Congress.

Since the current Hunsur MLA HP Manjunath is a staunch supporter of Siddaramaiah, Vishwanath — who held the seat previously — has to convince him if he wants to get the Congress ticket to contest the 2023 polls, a source said.

In 2019, when 17 Congress and JDS MLAs resigned and supported the BJP, Vishwanath, the then Hunsur JDS MLA, and Ramesh Jarkiholi were two key players who helped BS Yediyurappa form the government.

Except for Vishwanath, the others had managed to become ministers. Citing that Vishwanath had lost the bypoll held to Hunsur, he was denied a ministerial post. But another Kuruba leader, MTB Nagaraj, though had lost the bypolls, was elected an MLC and made a minister. Vishwanath since then has been critical of the BJP government.

"My meetings with Kharge and Siddaramaiah were courtesy calls. I met Kharge to wish him for becoming the Congress chief. As far as the CLP leader is concerned, I went to inquire about his health," Vishwanath told TNIE, adding that he went to Delhi to attend a Shepherd India International Association meeting. "But politics is not a stagnant water and time will decide my next move," he added.

CHURCH CALLS OFF STIR AGAINST VIZHINJAM PORT

Kerala govt rejects protesters' demands on disputed topics

SREEJITH K S @ T'Puram

IN a major political victory for the ruling LDF, the Latin Church that spearheads the anti-seaport agitation in Vizhinjam called off the 138-day-long stir on Tuesday, though the state government did not yield to their demands in any of the disputed topics. The decision to end the protest was announced by a visibly shaken Eugine Pereira, Vicar General of the Latin Church, after a closed-door meeting with Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

"The protest is being called off not because we are satisfied with the steps taken or promises made by the government...The protest has reached a certain stage... and we are calling it off," a visibly dejected Pereira told reporters after the meeting. However, he hastened to add that it's only a temporary truce. Ending the stalemate without compromising its stand has come as a major triumph for Pinarayi.

The protesters met the CM after two rounds of talks - first with the chief secretary and later with the cabinet sub committee. At the meeting with the chief minister, the protesters stressed on the need to include a local community representative in the expert committee constituted by the to study possible coastal erosion due to port construction. The agitators also demanded that an additional amount of Rs 2,500 should be given from state exchequer, to meet the rent expenses of those who lost their house and property.

However Pinarayi turned down both demands. Pointing out that an expert panel has already been formed, he assured the portestors that the committee will consult them too. On the extra rent amount, he said a government order has already been issued and hence their demand cannot be met. Pereira said they don't want to accept the CSR funds from the Adani Group. And the agitators decided to go by the earlier rent amount of Rs 5,500.

The CM guaranteed that a chief secretary level monitoring committee in which the port secretary is also a member, will monitor the rehabilitation process. The agitators can consult the committee any time.

With the strike withdrawn, Adani Group has announced its decision to resume the construction work without delay, so as to to meet the deadline of December 2023.

DATTA JAYANTI CELEBRATIONS BEGIN ON PEACEFUL NOTE

Nails on the road to Giri

As vehicles ferrying women devotees started moving towards Datta Peeta, traffic was obstructed as sharp nails were planted along a 1km stretch. Police and activists cleared the road littered with nails, and the convoy resumed its journey. Ravi termed it an "act of miscreants" and demanded a thorough probe.

ENS @Chikkamagaluru

THE three-day Datta Jayanti celebrations kicked off on Tuesday, with saffron sari clad women devotees taking out the 'Anasuya Sankeerthana Yatra' from Bola Rameshwara Temple premises in Chikkamagaluru.

Enthusiasm was high among the visibly excited devotees, as the government, for the first time after a decades-long struggle, formed a managing committee for Datta Peeta and appointed two Hindu priests to perform religious rituals inside the cave shrine, during the Datta Jayanti celebrations.

A large number of women devotees from different parts of the district participated in the procession, and chanted bhajans and keertans in praise of Datta and Anasuya Devi. Cultural troupes added colour to the march. Before the Yatra could start, MLA CT Ravi and VHP leader Srikanth Pai offered puja to the Datta idol and Anasuya, with the trinity gods in the backdrop. From Kamadhenu Ganapathy temple, devotees travelled in 120 buses to the Datta Peeta.

Women queued up to visit the cave shrine, offer puja to Mata Anasuya Gadduge and darshan of Datta padukas. Purohits offered theertha to the devotees. The organisers distributed turmeric, kumkum and green bangles to women participants.

KCR will be CM once again, says son KTR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

MUNICIPAL Administration Minister K T Rama Rao on Tuesday exuded confidence that TRS would score a hattrick in the next Assembly elections, when K Chandrasekhar Rao would emerge as the Chief Minister of Telangana once again, and that the Metro Rail project would be extended from LB Nagar to Hayathnagar.

Speaking at a meeting after inaugurating various development works in LB Nagar, he said: "The Metro has been completed till Nagole and L B Nagar. In the second phase, we will connect Nagole with LB Nagar and LB Nagar with Hayathnagar. It will not be done immediately. That is why I am telling you in advance."

The minister, referring to the state government's "commitment" to welfare programmes, said they had been designed to bring back smiles on the faces of the poor. The government is supporting lakhs of people across the state with various welfare programmes, he claimed.

Rama Rao said the CM had introduced an integrated holistic model, in which urban development, industry, the environment, agriculture and IT are in perfect balance with one another.

He said that before the formation of Telangana, the state's per capita income was Rs 1.24 lakh crore, and within seven years of the creation of a new state, it had shot up to become the No.1 state in the entire country with a per capita income of Rs 2.78 lakh. The GSDP, which was earlier at Rs 5.6 lakh crore, has risen to Rs 11.55 lakh crore.

The minister claimed that Telangana had shown the entire country the results of an integrated holistic model of administration. All sectors, including agriculture, IT, environment, healthcare, and so on have been developed simultaneously and systematically, he added.

As Hyderabad was expanding rapidly, investments in IT and other sectors were flowing, and accordingly, the second phase of SNDP works would also be undertaken.

Bandi slams CM for skipping PM's G20 meet

ADILABAD: Telangana BJP president Bandi Sanjay Kumar on Tuesday said that it's a shame that CM K Chandrasekhar Rao did not attend the G20 preparatory meeting convened by PM Narendra Modi in New Delhi on Monday. "Chief ministers of all the states and leaders of political parties from across the country participated in the meeting. But the Telangana CM chose to stay away from the meeting. He should be held answerable for this," charged Sanjay. He accused minister K T Rama Rao of using drugs, and expressed his readiness to prove the charge. "Bangalore & Hyderabad drug cases were closed as it would have exposed that #TwitterTillu was a drug addict. I'm ready to undergo any test to prove that I don't consume tobacco & will give any samples in any part of my body. Do you have guts to give blood & hair samples for drug test?" FIR filed, SUV driver arrested

PRAJWAL, a BCA graduate sustained injuries to his spinal cord, ribs and left leg bone which broke into three pieces and Anand, who owns a fast food centre, received injuries all over his body.

The incident happened on Monday evening when Rahul and Prajwal, who are cousins, along with their friends attended a function and had returned home in Sharadadevinagar. But one of their friends, who had come with them for the function, called and told them that he had left his room key in the car. So both left the house in the car (Maruti Bolero) to give the room key to their friend.

When they were travelling near Taralabalu Junction, a speeding SUV (Toyota Fortuner) driven by Darshan, whose parents were also in the car, came from behind, overtook the Bolero and took an immediate turn without giving any signal. The youth who applied sudden brakes to avoid hitting the SUV, asked the SUV driver to put the indicator on before taking a turn. This provoked Darshan and his father Vasu. While Darshan stopped the vehicle, his father Vasu came out of the vehicle and hit Rahul who was in the driver's seat. Darshan too joined his father and used abusive language and beat the youth.

Prajwal's father Nagaraj said that while the three youth walked a little distance from the spot, Darshan went and sat in the car. His parents were still standing near the SUV. Prajwal turned back to pick his spectacles which had fallen on the road during the clash. "Darshan's mother, who saw Prajwal coming back, told her son to hit him, following which he started his car and ran over all three", Nagaraj said.

Meanwhile, an FIR has been filed against Darshan and he has been arrested.

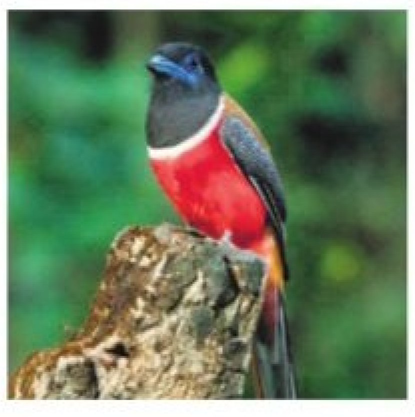
'Malabar Trogon' theme for bird festival at Kollur

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE most sought-after bird festival is back, and will be held at Kollur in the Mookambika Wildlife Sanctuary.

The theme and mascot of the 9th edition of the festival is the 'Malabar Trogon', which is also called fire crow, because of its metallic red and crimson plumage and crow-like appearance. The Karnatala Eco-Tourism Board, organising the festival, has listed January 6-8, 2023, as dates for the bird festival.

Board Chairman Madan Gopal told TNIE that the bird and the location have been chosen to create awareness of the species and its habitat. Very little is known about the bird, even as it is endemic to the region and the Western Ghats.



He said that every year, different themes and birds are chosen, so that the rich biodiversity of the region and the state are known to all. To add to the knowledge, lectures and walks are being planned for participants. Meanwhile, the area that has been chosen, between Udupi and Shivamogga, offers a unique blend with many birds for ornithologists to study. Over eight trails have been identified for the birds on location.

Officials from the board informed that Karnataka is home to over 500 species of birds, and January is the ideal time to spot the fascinating winged creatures due to season. Many migratory and native birds can be seen and counted during December-February. Officials added that this is also a step towards diversifying from tiger-centric tourism. So far, bird festivals have been held at Ranganthittu Bird Sanctuary in Mandya, Kali Tiger Reserve in Dandeli, Daroji Bear Sanctuary in Ballari, Pilikula Nisargadhama in Mangaluru, Halladakeri Tree Park in Bidar, Nandi Hills in Chikaballapur, BRT Tiger Reserve in Chamarajanagar, and the last one was in Madikeri.

Human trafficking ring busted in Hyderabad

ENS @ Hyderabad

IN a major operation, Cyberabad police, in coordination with the Anti-Human Trafficking Unit and SOT sleuths, arrested 18 members of a gang that lured and forced 14,190 women into prostitution over several years. According to police, the gang was responsible for about 70 per cent of of trafficking and prostitution cases in the city.

Among those arrested was Adeem, the kingpin, and Rakesh, the manager of a prominent hotel in Hyderabad.

Giving details, Cyberabad Police Commissioner Stephen Raveendra said on Tuesday that each of the 18 members was connected to hundreds of girls. Of the 14,190 victims, the most were from West Bengal, followed by Karnataka and Maharashtra. Some of the victims were from Bangladesh, Nepal, Thailand, Uzbekistan and Russia. There are 37 cases registered against the gang members, including in Miyapur, Madhapur, Kukatpally and Gachibowli police stations, Raveendra said. "The gang used to share the proceeds with the victims on a 70:30 ratio," the commissioner said.

"Their mode of communication was WhatsApp groups and websites. They were running call centres in Delhi, Bengaluru and Hyderabad. When it came to girls from abroad, the gang used to share pictures of the victims with the client. After the client agreed, flight tickets used to be booked and hotel rooms reserved," Raveendra said. "Those arrested include Adeem, Sameer, Harbindar Kaur, Salman Khan, Abdul Kareem, Jogeshwar Rao, Saibabu Goud, Prasad, Afsar, Gangadhar, Fayaz, Vishnu, Sudheer, Rishi, Srinivas, Abdul Rafeeq, Sarbeshwar and Rakesh," he added.

Mapping of elephant corridor under way in Kodagu

PRAJNA G R @ Madikeri

ELEPHANTS are migratory beings and tigers are known to be territorial. However, with forests depleting to make way for human-centric development, wildlife conflict is peaking, as is evident in Kodagu. Nevertheless, experts opine that the conflict can be addressed scientifically by not just establishing conflict-mitigation projects, but by connecting fragmented forest areas.

While humans are confined to district, state, national and international borders, the wildlife, especially elephants, migrate without borders. Similarly, a large population of wild elephants moved freely between Kodagu and Kerala states even as Bramhagiri-Nagarahole-Wayanad forest was known to be an age-old elephant corridor. However, this corridor has now been fragmented and the Kodagu division of the Forest Department is keen on connecting the fragmented forest area to make way for the free movement of the elephants. This in turn will also create a large undisturbed forest area for the territorial tigers too.

"Over 150 acres of two private coffee estates has disconnected the elephant corridor and is disrupting free movement of the elephants. The department is in talks with estate owners to purchase the land and establish an elephant corridor," said B N Niranjan Murthy, Chief Conservator of Forests of Kodagu division.

A huge gap between Bramhagiri and Wayanad forest area has forced the elephants to tread through villages and on roads to continue their migration. An estimate of Rs 25 crore has been drawn to procure private lands even as the department holds a vision to invest on a flyover in an area for vehicle movement.

Resort politics at GP level, members jet back to dethrone president

BANSY KALAPPA
@ Bengaluru/Haveri

MLAs being corralled in a resort and being flown out to cast their votes happens with amazing regularity in our democracy, especially when some key seats are involved. But when Gram Panchayat members are carted off to a resort and flown in to move a 'no confidence motion' against a sitting president, it can set a precedent in local body elections.

The vote against Gram Panchayat president Malthesh Nayara was planned to the last detail. GP members from Devaragudda village panchayat in Byadagi, Haveri district, were housed safely in a resort near Bengaluru, under heavy security. They were flown out to Haveri, and escorted to the meeting where they passed the 'no confidence motion' against Nayara, bringing him down in a swift and surprising move.

Incidentally, Haveri is the home district of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, and such political moves have their own implications.

Santosh Guruji, who is head of the Malthesh Swamiji temple in Devaragudda, said, "Nine elected persons are my candidates. I fielded 13 candidates in the gram panchayat and nine of them won. During that time, I wanted one of them to be president, so we all chose Malthesh Nayara. When he took over, we decided that he would step down in 15 months and even took an oath that he would do so. But after 15 months, he refused to step down as promised, and instead, continued to hold office in defiance. We had no option but to send the members into hiding so that he couldn't lure them. I had sent them to Tamil Nadu and other places, and brought them back at their request by plane."

BJP general secretary Ravikumar told TNIE, "We will get in touch with Siddaraj Kalkoti, party district president of Haveri, and based on the report, take a decision." Suresh Thalageri is likely to replace Malthesh Nayara as the next president. Following this development, the jurisdictional assistant commissioner will be present when the 13-member GP meeting is called, anda new president is elected. Details of how the GP members were kept busy and what they were offered as rewards, are still unconfirmed.

Agriculture Minister BC Patil said, "People don't keep their word. Might cannot be right in a democracy. Money is used to influence votes, and is not correct.''

NEW OIL PRICE CAP ROILS GLOBAL TRADE BUT INDIA MAY GAIN

Nervous global trade channels are in for another upheaval as the developed world—the G-7 bloc of nations—has begun enforcing the oil price cap against Russia at $60 a barrel. The 27-nation European Union bloc is joining with an outright ban on Russian seaborne oil. The object, under discussion since May, is to reduce windfall oil revenue being earned by Russia and, therefore, its ability to carry on the Ukraine war. The ban also stops EU operators from insuring and financing the transport of Russian oil to third parties. This means the ability of Russia to find tankers to carry its Ural crude will become increasingly difficult. Analysts say this will reduce Russia's oil exports to 2.4 million barrels a day (bpd), a cut of nearly 500,000 bpd. Brent crude moved up 2% to $83.5 a barrel on Tuesday, while there was a traffic jam of tankers off the Turkish coast as Ankara pushed for insurance verification.

Russia has threatened to retaliate and stop exports to those countries that support the oil price cap. Russia may also stop pipeline oil to the EU, which is not yet banned and is still a lifeline for many East European countries. Analysts say the oil price cap at $60 a barrel may not impact Russia. As it is, Russian crude is sold at a discount of $68 a barrel. Secondly, low production costs for Russian oil—between $30 and $44 a barrel—may still give enough margin to Russia to float along.

Europe will likely have to pay a heavier price in the near term. Though the 6-month long oil price cap negotiation gave time to the EU nations to arrange alternate sources, the heavy dependence on Russian crude will now make alternative oil purchases onerous as the OPEC bloc continues to cut production. On the other hand, for India, the new sanctions could be a near-term windfall. As it is, India has consistently bought Russian crude at discounted prices, rightly arguing that it can ill afford to let go of the cheaper oil source for a poor nation. Russia now has fewer options, and India can bargain for a deal even below the G7 cap of $60 a barrel. Long-term, the coming recession and falling oil demand may keep oil prices on a plateau. Or, if the Ukraine war worsens, it may be fireworks. It's times which are difficult to predict.

POLITICS OVER PEOPLE IN K'TAKA-MAHA DISPUTE

For a problem that has been ongoing for 66 years, the Karnataka-Maharashtra border dispute, at its core, is not an issue of the common Kannada- or Marathi-speaking folks. It has more to do with revenue and political mileage and was fanned by political elements from both sides, driving the language factor to the hilt to keep the issue alive for over six-and-a-half decades—Belagavi (erstwhile Belgaum) and its surrounding areas, including revenue-yielding Khanapur (rich in forest resources) and Nipani (abundant in tobacco), being at the core of the dispute.

The dispute kept taking a serious turn, and in 1966, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government constituted the Meherchand Mahajan Commission. The Commission conducted detailed surveys between August of that year to September 1967. It recommended that 264 villages, towns and cities from Karnataka be merged with Maharashtra, and 248 from Maharashtra be merged with Karnataka. But Belgaum was to remain an integral part of Karnataka. Both states rejected the Commission's recommendations. In 2004, the Maharashtra government constituted a committee under legal expert Y V Chandrachud and filed a petition in the Supreme Court, demanding Belgaum and its adjoining areas among 865 villages, towns and cities of Karnataka to be merged with it. The case is before the SC.

At ground zero, it is the Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) for Maharashtra and pro-Karnataka organisations like Karnataka Rakshana Vedike for Karnataka which have been keeping the issue alive. But the ones taking the brunt of the frequent protests and acts of violence are—like always in such disputes—the common people, irrespective of the language they speak. Protests and violence force businesses to shut, affecting the livelihood of the common folk. Vehicles of innocent people travelling between the two states are targeted. Police from both states stop motorists with vehicles bearing registration numbers of the other state and subject them to harassment near border check posts.

Deep below the political facade of this ongoing issue, the people of the two states share strong cultural, artistic, traditional and culinary ties—even more so in the interstate border areas. They are the real people for whom development matters the most, not the ones driving political agendas by claiming each other's territories that anyway belong to the same country. It is time ordinary people are placed at the centre stage.

QUICK TAKE

IRAN PROTESTS AND BEYOND

The protests in Iran have risen above the hijab issue. The people now fight the root cause, in this case, the Council of Cultural Revolution directives that weaponise the morality police. They realise that discontinuing street patrolling means nothing unless these orders stand revoked. So, they target the repressive regime and its laws. Iran must be aware of how public rallies against inhuman moral checks in Saudi Arabia in 2002 eventually paved the way for pro-women reforms. The protests should also caution several countries in North Africa, the Middle East and South-East Asia where retrograde gender laws are in vogue.

Over the years, sub-nationalisms have pushed across the impression that language and culture alone define a state

STREET AND COURT IN THE BATTLE BETWEEN STATES

Whenever the Karnataka-Maharashtra border row erupts, there is a lot of rhetoric that rents the air. There is a lot of sub-nationalistic jingoism and linguistic chauvinism that grips activists, interest groups and politicians on both sides. However, the reality is that neither rhetoric nor chauvinism can enter a court of law. Any dispute, be it related to land or water or language—the aspects that have come to define the cultural identities of Indian states predominantly, has only to be argued within the framework of the Indian Constitution.

Sometimes the emotions and expectations generated on the street, and even in state legislatures, do not easily reconcile with reasoned, layered, cold and canny arguments in courts. In other words, courtroom deliberations of these highly emotive identity issues are not often a continuation of the logic we hear on the streets. This reading eminently applies to the Karnataka-Maharashtra border row that had flared up once again now—for the thousandth time since 1956, when the reorganisation of states was undertaken.

For instance, one can deduce two prominent themes in Karnataka's defence in the Supreme Court against the suit filed by Maharashtra in 2004. These two themes do not necessarily intersect with popular logic on the row. One, Karnataka tries to draw the court's attention to the nature and nuances of our federal character. Two, it tries to drive home the point that linguistic criterion was not the sole and exclusive criterion on which the states were reorganised in 1956.

Let's first look at the federal argument. Karnataka has consistently argued that the phrase 'Union of States' in our Constitution does not mean the same as in, say, the Constitution of the United States of America. States in the Indian Union, it is interpreted, do not have any attributes of sovereignty as in the US Constitution. That no state in India represents a pre-existing sovereign unit. The states are supreme to the extent that our Constitution allows them to be singular and supreme. And the Constitution is clear that the Union of India is 'indestructible', not the states formed under it.

What this means is that Parliament has unfettered powers to increase, alter, or diminish the areas of states. The power may even extend to eliminating the very existence of a state. In the US Constitution or 'pure federal forms of Constitution', pre-existing sovereign states had, by an agreement, entered the union. Therefore, the American states have a right to territorial integrity, but that is not true with Indian states. That is, no state can stridently argue for its borders and convert it into a property dispute.

Karnataka's submission quotes Dr Ambedkar's explanation from the Constituent Assembly debates, in which the difference between the Indian and US Constitutions are spelt out clearly: "The federation was not the result of an agreement by the states to join in a federation, and that the federation not being the result of an agreement, no state has the right to secede from it. The federation is a Union because it is indestructible. Though the country and the people may be divided into different states for convenience of administration, the country is one integral whole, its people a single people living under a single imperium derived from a single source. The Americans had to wage a civil war to establish that the states have no right of secession and that their federation was indestructible. The drafting committee thought it was better to make it clear at the outset rather than leave it to speculation or disputes."

This point of Dr Ambedkar gets reiterated in the States Reorganisation Commission (SRC) report of 1955. Many other commissions and judgments that have followed since have made this point too, quite loudly, including the Sarkaria Commission that examined the relationship between the Centre and states.

Now, on the second point, Karnataka emphasises that the linguistic criterion is not the sole and exclusive criterion on which the states were reorganised in 1956. It eloquently cites the SRC report on this. There were aspects of national security, geographical contiguity, financial viability, economic development, administrative convenience, and the welfare of the people that went into the making of the boundaries of states, and not just language. The SRC, Karnataka has fervently argued, adopted a "balanced approach" to redrawing boundaries.

The SRC report said: "After a full consideration of the problem in all its aspects, we have concluded that it is neither possible nor desirable to reorganise states based on the single test of either language or culture, but that a balanced approach to the whole problem is necessary in the interests of our national unity." This means that linguistic homogeneity is an important factor but not the only factor on which the boundaries of states can be determined. However, over the decades, sub-nationalisms have pushed across the impression that language and culture alone define a state. The balance inherent in the SRC's approach is never highlighted except in court battles.

Recently, there was a raging argument about India being a 'Union of States'. Rahul Gandhi and politicians in Tamil Nadu foregrounded it to counter the flat idea of 'one nation' that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) was trying to push across. Even then, the refinement of this idea, as it exists in our Constitution, was never discussed.

Interestingly, the argument that Karnataka has made against Maharashtra may have resonance inside its own existing boundaries. After all, the state is not culturally and linguistically flat. Karnataka has periodically seen demands for a separate Kodava state, a separate North Karnataka, demands to include Tulu in the list of the official languages under the Eighth Schedule of the Constitution alongside Kannada and other languages, and the coastal districts of Karnataka have always exhibited a fair degree of autonomy from the state's political Centre.

After Telangana was carved out from Andhra Pradesh a decade ago, cultural differences within large, linguistically contiguous terrains became even more apparent. Ironically, Karnataka claims Kannada-speaking areas in neighbouring Kerala (Kasargod) on the very principle that it denies Maharashtra its claim. This is not to rub in contradictions but to reaffirm the complexities involved in these matters. Identity issues that wear crowns of pride are never easy to settle.

NEPAL NEGOTIATES A FRACTURED MANDATE

MANJEEV SINGH PURI

Former Indian Ambassador to Nepal

The full results of Nepal's federal elections have yet to be declared, and though it appears that Prime Minister Sher Bahadur Deuba has an edge for retaining his position, others too are jockeying for the top job. This includes members of his party and Prachanda, the exclusion of whose Communist Party of Nepal (Maoist Centre) would make it difficult to muster the required numbers to reach a majority in the House of Representatives. The power-sharing negotiations may, therefore, take time.

The House consists of 275 members, 165 being elected under the First Past the Post (FPTP) system and 110 through proportional representation (PR).

The Nepali Congress will be the largest party. The Communist Party of Nepal (Unified Marxist–Leninist) [UML], former PM K P Sharma Oli's party, will be the second largest. Overall, as was the case in the last election in 2017, the importance of a coalition stands underlined. At that time, the communist parties secured nearly two-thirds of the seats in a coalition of the UML and Maoist Centre. That didn't last the entire term of five years as the coalition partners fell out.

Prime Minister Oli, with the concurrence of the president, then made two attempts in 2021 to dissolve the House, but the Supreme Court intervened, disallowing the dissolution and, in the second ruling, ordering the appointment of Sher Bahadur Deuba as prime minister. The rulings were based on articles in the 2015 Constitution enjoining political parties to try and ensure that the House runs its full term of five years. This time, the Nepali Congress fought the election in coalition with the Maoists, the Communist Party of Nepal (Unified Socialist) of former Prime Minister Madhav Kumar Nepal, and a Madhesi party. Together they are headed for just under the halfway mark of 138.

The election in 2017 saw a voter turnout of around 78%. This time, it was an abysmal 61%, reflecting voter apathy at the political establishment. Several other indications of the popular mood in Nepal appear visible.

The first is a clear sign of a changing Nepal impacted greatly by globalisation, with nearly a quarter of the country's population being overseas. This is best reflected in the stupendous performance of a newly formed party, the Rastriya Swatantra Party, led by US-returned charismatic TV anchor Rabi Lamichhane, securing over 11% of the proportional vote and becoming the fourth largest party in the House. Reports indicate that Nepalis overseas hugely influenced family members back home to back the Swatantra Party and give newcomers a chance. Some months earlier, Kathmandu had similarly witnessed the election of Balen Shah, a rapper, as mayor.

The India hand and China card are often talked about in the context of Nepal's politics, but now the influence of the West appears manifest too. Systemically, this can only be a challenge for India in time, no matter a certain feeling for the present that the West helps contain Chinese influence in Nepal.

PTI

> Nepal's politics is unpredictable, with no permanent friends or enemies. Coalitions are possible in all combinations and are subject to the vagaries of immediate needs and allurements of all kinds, including from external forces

Secondly, within the established political parties, younger politicians are emerging and may soon be able to challenge the leadership. A special case in point is Gagan Thapa, a former health minister and Nepali Congress MP from Kathmandu whose star appears to be headed towards taking on the 76-year-old Deuba, even possibly for prime ministership this time. The Nepali Congress also has to find an appropriate high slot for Deuba's spouse, Arzu Rana Deuba, who has emerged as a heavyweight political entity in her own right.

Thirdly, the visible downslide of the Maoists and the other splinters in the communist fold. Prachanda barely managed 30 seats as compared to 49 in 2017, and Madhav Nepal is likely limited to just 13 MPs, down from the 25 in his faction in 2017, and barely crossing the 3% of voter turnout threshold for securing PR seats. The talk now is of Madhav Nepal having little choice but to merge his party with Prachanda's.

Fourthly, the pro-monarchy and Hindu Rashtra party, the Rastriya Prajatantra Party, had just one seat in the outgoing Parliament but will now be the fifth largest in the House. For many, this would indicate growing support for its cause, but the reality is also that it only bagged 6% of the proportional vote countrywide. Perhaps, the cap for its ideology. And, fifthly, disenchantment for the traditional leaders of specific causes such as the Madhes and Tharu issues.

Nepal's politics is unpredictable, with no permanent friends or enemies. Coalition partnerships are possible in all combinations and are subject to the vagaries of immediate needs and allurements of all kinds, including from external forces.

Even as the election results unfold, there are reports of Oli reaching out to Prachanda, which he hadn't done since their fall-out in 2021. The coming together of the UML and the Maoists alone, however, will not reach the magic halfway mark even though the Chinese would be happy to encourage any such move if it coalesces the communist forces in Nepal.

While jockeying for key ministerial berths and the speaker's post are the bargaining norm, the politics of the past few years has underscored the criticality of the role of the president. This makes the election of the president, due in a few months, of crucial importance, no matter the supposedly titular role of the post.

A Nepali Congress government is generally perceived as better for India-Nepal ties, given its democratic traditions and connections with Indian political leaders. Deuba has served as prime minister five times. His astrologer has apparently predicted he'll be prime minister seven times. A sixth, therefore, appears on par! The Nepali Constitution inhibits a no-confidence vote for two years after a prime minister proves a majority. But a coalition with an ambitious leader like Prachanda has in-built fragility, and only time will tell how things unfold.

All too predictable

In the just-concluded assembly elections in Gujarat, the real issues were overshadowed by non-issues. The exit poll prediction was a bit amusing as it is a state polarised so much that unless this polarisation comes to an end, which is unlikely at the moment, Gujarat will re-elect the party in power again in the future. In Gujarat, even a child can predict the victory of the BJP.

EC needs more muscle

As the general elections and assembly elections to many states are scheduled to be held in 2023–24, it is high time that Parliament enacts laws to further strengthen the EC, arming it with powers to prevent political parties from distributing liquor, money and other forms of inducement, so that we can have a vibrant democracy.

Make voting compulsory

Winning elections in India appears to be a financially profitable business to many as they spend a lot of money expecting high returns. Public money is lost. In a 60% polling, 40% do not vote. In this 60%, who wins the election might have gotten only 20% or even less of the votes. So, we are permitting a person who does not get majority votes. If this is the state of affairs, then there is a case to bring in compulsory voting by legislation.

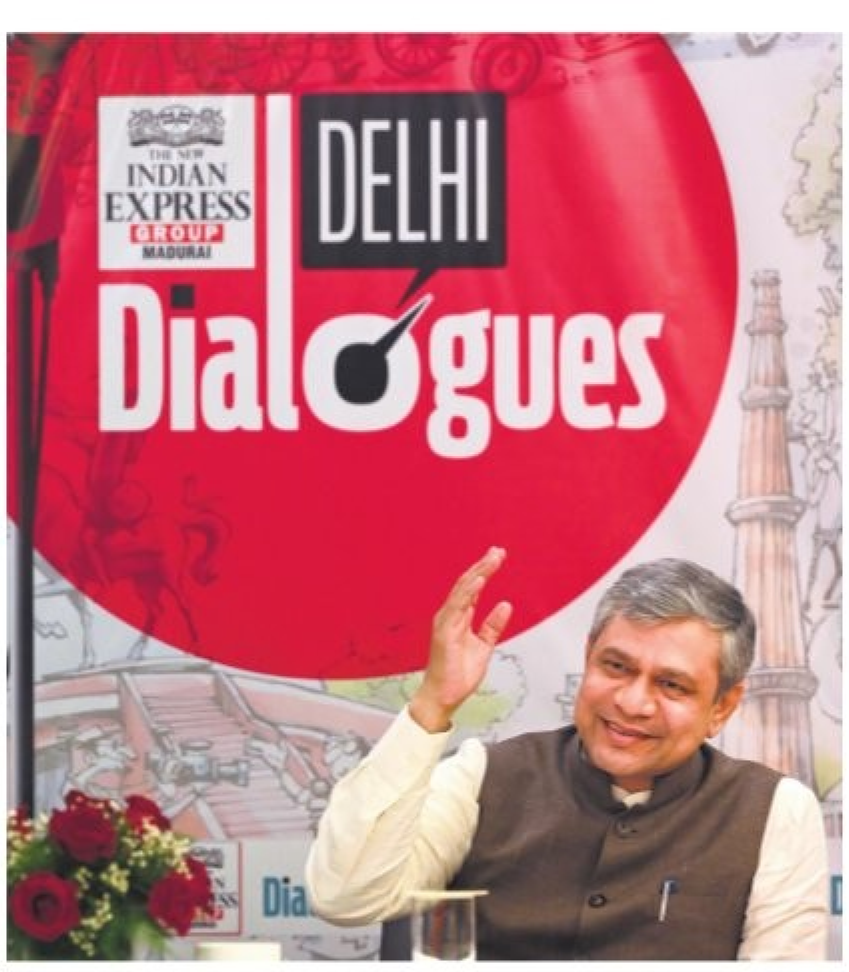
Will have light-touch regulations on OTT: Vaishnaw

Union Minister of IT, Telecom and Railways Ashwini Vaishnaw talks about various issues like draft telecom bill, privacy laws, challenges ahead of the railways, during a freewheeling conversation at the inaugural edition of The New Indian Express Delhi Dialogues. Excerpts:



Union minister Ashwini Vaishnaw at the Delhi Dialogues | SHEKHAR YADAV

SHAHID FARIDI: There is a big debate on freedom of speech and the need to regulate OTT platforms. How do you plan to balance the two?

The short answer is we will regulate only communication OTTs. It will be a light touch. What is the focus of regulation? Focus is protection of the user. How does protection of users bring regulation? Today majority of cyber frauds are happening using the OTT platforms. And imagine a poor person having ₹30,000 in a bank account, the sole asset one has, and that goes away in a single wrong decision of sharing an OTP. So there is a clear need for focusing on protection of users in this complex cyber world in which even highly aware people, highly tech-savvy people fall prey to so many things floating around. So if we don't act today, then the problem will become so big that we will not be able to solve.

The long answer is look at the bill in the comprehensive legal framework. We are into digital economy. Today digital is part of every sector, whether it is journalism, manufacturing, agriculture, education or healthcare, every sector has an important digital component.

In this scenario, can we run the digital economy by old legacy regulations and laws? We cannot.

So, we are coming up with a comprehensive framework of digital laws. The telecom bill is a horizontal law for the carrier, the pipe that carries digital. We are not regulating the content in this Bill. It is horizontal because it cuts across all sectors.

The second horizontal bill is about privacy. What are the citizens' rights? What are the privacy related obligations of the people who are operating in the digital economy? So rights and obligations framework is covered in the digital data protection bill.

These two horizontals are the foundations of the digital regulatory structure.

Over and above this, you can have verticals that are sector-specific. For instance, the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting can bring regulations for content and digital media. The RBI and Ministry of Finance can bring regulations for digital finance.

This way a comprehensive, agile, modular, focussed framework of regulations is developing for the digital economy.

RAKESH KUMAR: OTT firms are saying if they come under licensing regulation, then it will kill the OTT ecosystem.

So why do you assume that they will be licensed? Regulation doesn't mean (you need) license. We're basically setting certain boundaries focussed on user protection.

DIPAK MONDAL: So we can say that they will be light-touch regulation?

Yes, we can safely say that there will be light-touch regulations.

DIPAK MONDAL: On privacy, there is apprehension that the provisions of the new telecom bill will breach the right to privacy of individuals...

This fear is unfounded. We have met people who understand privacy and privacy-related regulations — experts who understand how privacy regulations work across different geographies. If you read the Telecom Bill along with the Data Bill, you will understand that privacy is fully protected.

MONIKA YADAV: The government recently launched a pilot project... If I make a payment to digital rupee, the right to privacy will be compromised?

Privacy is fully preserved in digital rupee.

MONIKA YADAV: Can you elaborate on user protection in the backdrop of soft regulation?

Sure. Suppose, you receive a call when you are busy doing something very important. Now, isn't it your right to know who's calling and whether you should pick up? Isn't that preserving your privacy? Don't you have the right to disconnect the call if you don't want to receive it?

Our light-touch regulation is mainly focused on protecting the user in the sense that the user should know who's calling or who has sent a message.

VVP SHARMA: We already have Truecaller. That's doing exactly the same thing?

We believe proper KYC and the right of receiver of call to know who is calling will provide a reasonably robust protection framework for users.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR: When do you think bullet train will become a reality in India?

The bullet train technology is very complex. The train will run at 320 kmph. Imagine how difficult it is to run a vehicle at 100 kmph. By now, we have completed the design work. We have completed construction of 112 km pillars. Construction is going on rapidly. We are targeting the first trial run in 2026.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR: Is the Railway Ministry considering hyperloop train project?

We have tied up with IIT-Madras. It's a team of bright young engineers who are very passionate. It's a very complex technology in which vacuum has to be perfected. Movement is without wheels. The pod inside is going to be levitated. It moves with magnetic fields. It is very complex. It will take 5-6 years to develop hyperloop technology.

PREETHA NAIR: How transparent will be the appointment of data protection board CEO?

Tell me who appoints Reserve Bank of India governor? Who appoints SEBI chairperson? Government appoints RBI, SEBI, TRAI. These are organisations which are very independent. Fiercely independent. I can give you many such examples. Where does independence come from? Independence comes from law.

SHAHID FARIDI: India is becoming a big manufacturer and exporter of 4G equipment. But the two largest telecom companies in India are still importing equipment. Why is it so?

This journey of Atmanirbhar Bharat started practically in 2020. Developing an ecosystem in two years is itself a big achievement. We are supporting manufacturing of telecom equipment in every way.

SHAHID FARIDI: You want to take that step?

Today morning we had a meeting with 42 CEOs of telecom equipment manufacturers. We can create so much strength in this ecosystem that why only two telcos, 20 telcos will buy equipment from our manufacturers. The world should buy from us. We have to stand on our own feet on the strength of the quality of the product, the cost of the product, advanced nature of the product, rather than having a legal mandate.

PM sir always tells us 'sector ko itna majboot bana lo, ki koi bhi taqqat usko hila na sakey'.

RAKESH KUMAR: You have pumped in a lot of money to revive the BSNL.

The BSNL story is complex. BSNL was a profitable company with strong results, but somehow 14-15 years back, UPA government policies led to its bleeding.

In 2019, the first package of ₹70,000 crore was given to BSNL. This brought a new life, a new sense of purpose in BSNL. In 2020-21, BSNL registered operating profit. Now the company has become stable. And it is ready to get into the growth mode.

Three things in this package. First, the balance sheet has to be repaired. Second, new technology has to come. Third, it has to have strong presence both in the wireless and wire segments. The package is getting rapidly implemented. BSNL is raising funds using the sovereign backed bonds. 4G spectrum has been allocated. There is a new energy in BSNL staff at grassroots level.

Now come to new technologies. We could have purchased technology from global companies. But Hon'ble PM took a very clear call that if a large network like BSNL does not give the opportunity to test our homegrown solution, how will we ever test our homegrown solutions? So with that thought, BSNL has been given a clear mandate to work only on homegrown technology. That technology is now ready. In May, it has been tested. Initially for 1 million simultaneous calls, then we will got to 5 million simultaneous calls. So by next year December, you will see a big change in the BSNL.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR: Is the Railway Ministry considering restoring concessions for senior citizens?

All passengers are getting about 55% concession. If the cost of providing the railway travel service is ₹100, the railways is charging only about ₹45. Last year, the subsidy given on railway passenger services was ₹62,000 crore. This is more than the budget of many states. We have 18 lakh pensioners. The cost of pension is today ₹58,000 crore. We have 12 lakh employees. The cost of wages and salaries is ₹97,000 crore. Then ₹40,000 crore is the cost of energy. Then about ₹12,000 crore is the cost of maintenance. Then there is the cost of interest. So we are barely breaking even.

SANTWANA BHATTACHARYA: Are you focusing on freight as it has always been the cash cow. Is there a plan to run more freight trains since you're saying that we are barely breaking even?

We are trying to increase cargo and goods as much as possible. But again, infrastructure remains a constraint. Last year, we added 184 billion tonnes, which was an all-time record. The PM has a very big vision for the railways. Lots and lots of work is being done on infrastructure, on availability of wagons, on availability of locomotives, on getting more automatic signalling, making sure that the overhead wires are upgraded to 2x25 KV so that enough current is available for carrying longer trains.

A huge amount has been invested. Before 2014, only about ₹40,000 crore was invested on a network of this size. PM has increased it to three times.

Agusta accused Michel would have got bail had he been Indian, hints SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

EXPRESSING concerns at the pace with which CBI and ED was conducting trial against Christian James Michel, middleman who was allegedly responsible for illegal transactions in AgustaWestland VVIP chopper scam, the Supreme Court on Tuesday asked probe agencies whether it was justified to keep him behind bars and deprive James of his liberty due to his nationality. James was arrested and extradited from Dubai on December 4, 2018.

"We must share with you this concern, so you can reply. How long will you keep this man only because he is a foreign national? Ordinarily, if he was an Indian national who had already spent four-and-a-half years in jail and this was the stage of the prosecution, we would have been inclined to grant bail... Yes, he is a foreign national and brought him through extradition... But will that justify the complete deprivation of liberty?" A bench of CJI D Y Chandrachud and Justice P S Narasimha asked ASG SV Raju for the probe agencies.

Hearing Michael's bail plea against DHC's March 14 ruling, the court also referred to the complexity of trial that involved 250 witnesses and 1280 documents of evidence. "The CBI has not been able to get even a single sanction for prosecuting accused government officials. The FIR dates back to 2013," the bench also remarked.

Michaels' counsels, Advocates Aljio Joseph, Sriram Parakkat and Vishnu Shankar contended that Michel's case was covered u/s 436A of CrPC and that he had covered 50% of his maximum sentence which according to section 8 and 9 of Prevention of Corruption Act was 5 years. He further added that Michel could only be tried for the offence mentioned in the extradition treaty. "Many foreign nationals who are similarly placed have been granted bail. Government officers too have been granted bail. There is violation of human rights and I have been extradited illegally," he further added.

On the other hand, ASG SV Raju for the probe agencies told the bench that James was chargesheeted under section 467 of IPC for forgery of valuable security which was punishable up to life imprisonment.

Increased margin of profit after hike in import duty sees gold smuggling rise

AMIT MUKHERJEE @ New Delhi

AS the yellow metal continues its rise in the Indian bullion market, recently revisiting five-month high of ₹54,006 per 10 gram, buoyed by global push, smuggling of the gold metal continues to touch new peaks.

The surge in smuggling has been triggered by an extremely high demand in the wedding and festive season, coupled with low imports during the month of November, due to rising prices in the international market, said Manoj Jain, a Hyderabad-based bullion trader.

In one of the recent seizures during the month of November, the custom officials at the Chhatrapati Shivaji International Airport of Mumbai seized 61 kg of gold worth ₹32 crore in one day, making it the highest value single-day seizure made by the department ever.

Amidst falling imports and high demand some of the jewellers are also offering discounted rates which has been possible by supplies coming in from smuggling, says jeweller from Maneck Chowk, Ahmedabad. "Gold is available in the domestic market even at the peak season and rising prices at a discount of ₹1,200 per 10g due to rising unofficial procurement at lower costs," he added.

On an average, a smuggler in the recent time can earn a profit of up to ₹3.15 lakhs if he manages to get past the custom sleuths posted at the Indian ports, says Anurag Tripathi, an ex-MCX analyst and now a bullion trader.

"The average difference in cost of gold between Dubai and India — at current price level — is about ₹7000 per 10 grams, due to the quantum of duty levied on the yellow metal here," Tripathi said. So, a 500-gram gold biscuit from UAE would fetch a smuggler margin of about ₹3.25 to 3.5 lakhs, he added. India recently, around July this year, had raised the basic import duty on gold to 12.5% from 7.5%, to dampen its demand and bring down the trade deficit.

The quantum of import of gold into India is significantly high because of huge demand. India, the world's second-biggest gold consumer after China, imports about 900 MT of gold.

> The average difference in cost of gold between Dubai and India — at current price level — is about ₹7000 per 10 grams, due to the quantum of duty levied on the yellow metal here," Tripathi said. So, a 500-gram gold biscuit from UAE would fetch a smuggler margin of about ₹3.25 to 3.5 lakhs —Anurag Tripathi, an ex-MCX analyst and now a bullion trader

2 PSUs better their ranks among top defence companies

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE government's Make-in-India push in indigenous defence production seems to be bearing the positive results as the two Indian Defence Public Sector Undertakings, Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL) and Bharat Electronics Limited (BEL), have improved upon their previous rankings among the arms producing companies of the world.

The Sweden-based independent international institute Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, dedicated to research into conflict, armaments, arms control and disarmament, in its latest report on the top 100 arms producing and military services company 2021 has placed the HAL and BEL in the list of top 100 companies worldwide to supply arms, totaling to $5.1 billion in 2021. Aerospace and defence manufacturing Defence Public Sector Undertaking (DPSU) HAL and BEL, also a DPSU, which is an aerospace and defence electronics company are ranked at 42nd and 63rd in the ranking respectively.

The two companies saw an increase of 1.9 per cent in their total arms sales for 2021. Individually, HAL's sales increased by 6.7 per cent while BEL's 20 per cent. They were ranked 43 and 69 in 2020.

The think tank attributed this raise in their rankings due to major orders placed by the Indian armed forces in the recent year. The Ordnance Factory Board which had made into the list in 2020, could not get place this time because of restructuring in its organisation.

Interestingly SIPRI included a Taiwanese firm for the first time in the top 100. NCSIST has been ranked 60th. It specialises in missiles and military electronics and recorded arms sales of $2 billion in 2021.

China has a total of eight companies listed in the top 100, and among them four companies are ranked among the top 10. Their total sale of the arms was worth $109 billion in 2021, an increase of 6.3 per cent against the previous year.

India's long standing defence supplier Russia has its six companies in top 100 with three having recorded a decrease in their arms sales, while the other three recorded an increase. The report mentions that one of the Russian companies which saw an increase of 18 per cent in its sales "can be partly attributed to growth in its foreign sales, most likely to India." The combined arms sales of these six companies grew by 0.4 per cent to reach $17.8 billion in 2021.

The overall leader has been companies belonging to the US with a share of 51 per cent of the total arms sales. The US companies are followed by the Chinese companies.

DEFENCE RANKS

HAL is at 42nd position

BEL is at 69th position

Total arms sales of the two Indian companies in the top 100 were $5.1billion (approximately ₹40,000 cr) in 2021

Overall globally, the sales of arms and military services by the 100 largest companies reached $592 billion in 2021

Lakhimpur court frames charges against Mishra

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

A Lakhimpur Kheri court on Tuesday framed charges against Ashish Mishra, son of Minister of State for Home Affairs Ajay Mishra Teni, and 13 others in connection with Tikunia violence case. Eight persons, including four farmers, three BJP workers and a local journalist, had died during the violence on October 3, 2021.

Mishra is the main accused in the case as four farmers were trampled allegedly by his SUV while they were protesting against the visit of Deputy CM Keshav Maurya in the wake of three contentious farm laws which the Union government scrapped later. Maurya was on a visit to Kheri to participate in an event organised by Teni.

Additional District Judge Sunil Kumar Verma framed charges against all the 14 accused. All of them, barring one Virendra Shukla, who is out on bail, were produced in court on Tuesday through video conferencing. The next date of hearing is December 16 for the prosecution to produce evidences against the accused, according to District Government Counsel (criminal), Arvind Tripathi.

Besides Mishra, the other accused persons are Ankit Das, Nandan Singh Bisht, Satya Prakash Tripathi, Latif alias Kale, Shekhar Bharti, Sumit Jaiswal, Ashish Pandey, Lavkush Rana, Shishu Pal, Ullhas Kumar alias Mohit Trivedi, Rinku Rana and Dharmendra Banjara under Sections 147 (rioting), 148 (rioting armed with deadly weapons), 149 (offence committed in persecution of common object), 307 (attempt to murder), 326 (voluntarily causing grievous hurt by dangerous weapons), 302 (murder), 427 (mischief causing damage), 120B (criminal conspiracy) of the IPC as well as Section 177 of the Motor Vehicles Act. Charges under Section 201 (for causing disappearance of evidences) of the IPC were framed against the 14th accused, Virendra Shukla, who is out on bail.

Mishra was granted bail by the Allahabad HC earlier this year. The HC order was challenged in the SC which cancelled Mishra's bail on April 18 and asked him to surrender within a week. He surrendered on April 24.

Raj Cong gets HC jolt during Yatra

Notice sent to Speaker Joshi over resignations of 91 MLAs during 'CM Gehlot's tussle'

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

Rahul Gandhi during Bharat Jodo Yatra in Jhalawar, Rajasthan, on Tuesday | EXPRESS

> The Speaker and the secretary of the Assembly will have to present why they have not yet decided on these resignations even after a lapse of 70 days —Rajendra Singh Rathore, BJP leader

EVEN as Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra entered its second day in Rajasthan on Tuesday, the Congress received a jolt with the high court issuing a notice to the Rajasthan Assembly Speaker CP Joshi over the resignations of 91 party MLAs on September 25.

A division bench of Justices MM Srivastava and VK Bhavani gave the order on a PIL filed by BJP leader Rajendra Singh Rathore, since the Speaker has not yet taken any decision on the issue. The petition said if an MLA submits his resignation under Rule 173 of the Legislative Assembly Procedure, the Speaker has no option but to accept the resignation and can only examine whether the resignation is voluntary and genuine or not.

The petition also said that it is possible that such a huge number of MLAs may have been forced to give their resignations or their signatures were forged, and the government has lost confidence in the House due to the resignation of MLAs. "The court has issued a two weeks' notice after the hearing," Rathore said. "The Speaker and the secretary of the Assembly will have to present why they have not yet decided on these resignations even after a lapse of 70 days," he added. Meanwhile, Rahul faced pro-Modi slogans when his rally passed in front of the office of Lok Sabha MP Dushyant Singh, the son of former Chief Minister Vasundhra Raje in Jhalawar district, which is the BJP leader's bastion.

Rahul shook hands with the BJP workers and also asked Sachin Pilot and Ramlal Jat, who were walking along, to greet them. The Congress leaders waved at the crowd, and even blew a few flying kisses towards them, which led to a burst of clapping from the onlookers. This, the Congress said, is a reflection of the kind of politics Rahul wants to promote through his Yatra. Rahul also said on the social media that the purpose of his Yatra is to counter the politics of hatred that is being spread in the country.

"Neither malice, nor irritation, nor anger — there is none of these in the heart of any of our Yatris. There is something to unite India, sympathy for the problems of Indians and love for all countrymen…," he posted. Meanwhile, amid continuing internal tussle in the Congress in Rajasthan, senior Punjab leader Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa has been appointed as the state on-charge in place of Ajay Maken, who resigned a few weeks ago. Randhawa has also been nominated as a member of the Congress Steering Committee. In the last two-and-a-half years, two state in-charges have resigned in Rajasthan, but the Gehlot-Pilot dispute remains unresolved.

Soren's 'Yatra' for his govt's achievements

Taking a cue from Congress's Bharat Jodo Yatra, CM Hemant Soren has announced Khatiyani Johar Yatra, to highlight the government's achievements over the last three years and feedback from the public on the implementation of various schemes. JMM led UPA government is all set to complete three years on December 29. It is likely to be called Khatiyani Johar Yatra as it sought to celebrate the government's new domicile policy based on land records (khatiyan) of 1932 besides 27 per cent reservation for OBC, old pension scheme, loan waiver and crop relief for farmers. It would be led by the CM with senior leaders.

Tussle over tribal advisory council meet

The ongoing tussle between Jharkhand Governor Ramesh Bais and CM Hemant Soren seems to be growing with a letter from Raj Bhavan questioning the holding of the Tribal Advisory Council meeting a week ago. The letter has raised objection over TAC meeting defying directives issued by the Governor House. The letter also asks the government to furnish status of compliance with the earlier directives along with reasons for the delay in compliance with the directives. Thirteen of the 24 districts of the state are classified as scheduled areas.

7 HELD FOR BUYING, SELLING NEWBORN BABIES IN PUNJAB

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THE Punjab Police has arrested seven persons, including two women for allegedly selling and buying newborn babies here on Tuesday. The police rescued two three-day-old babies and recovered Rs 4 lakh from the gang.

Senior Superintendent of Police of Patiala Varun Sharma, while talking to this newspaper said that following a tip-off, the police arrested seven members (Baljinder Singh, Amandeep Kaur, Bhupinder Kaur, Lalit Kumar, Sajita, and Harpreet Singh) of the gang who had come to sell a newborn baby to Sukhwinder Singh, who was also arrested.

The infants were either stolen or bought for Rs 50,000 each from poor families and sold for Rs 4 to 5 lakh each to childless couples.

"A case was registered at Sadar Samana police station. We are investigating to ascertain from where they arranged the infants, as of now, from the initial inquiries, it seems that the gang was active in Punjab and neighbouring states," he said.

The SSP said, "This gang has its network in Punjab and other states. They used to target poor families with several children or a family with a single parent. They used to convince or coerce the parent into selling their child for Rs 50,000 to Rs 60,000 and then used sell them to childless couples for Rs 4 to Rs 5 lakh."

He also added that the gang had converted an SUV into an ambulance so that they could operate their racket undetected.

The vehicle has also been recovered.

ARRESTED IN RAJ

TMC's Gokhale held for spreading fake news on PM

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

TRINAMOOL Congress spokesperson Saket Gokhale was on Tuesday arrested by the Gujarat Police for tweeting an alleged fake news on Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to Morbi following a tragic bridge collapse there."Gokhale was arrested in Jaipur, Rajasthan, during the early hours on Tuesday by the Gujarat Police and brought to Ahmedabad," based on a complaint filed by a citizen, the police informed. An Ahmedabad court later remanded him in police custody for two days.

Before entering the court, Gokhale told the media, "it was very sad that he was arrested for a tweet on the PM's visit." As many as 136 people had died in the bridge collapse on October 30. Gokhale tweeted an allegedly clipping in a Gujarati daily citing an RTI reply on the cost of that Modi's visit to Morbi. But government officials denied putting out any information under RTI, and the newspaper denied publishing it, Assistant Commissioner of Police Jitendra Yadav said.

West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee stood by Gokhale saying he made no mistake and condemned what she called the BJP government's vindictive attitude.

With upper caste chief at helm again, Bihar Cong targets BJP vote bank

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

THE appointment of Rajya Sabha member Akhilesh Prasad Singh as Bihar Congress president has created a flutter in the political circles of the state. With Singh's appointment, the Congress becomes the third major political party of the ruling RJD-led grand alliance in Bihar to give its baton to a forward caste leader.

While it was expected that the grand old party may give a chance to a leader from the OBC, EBC, SC or Muslim communities, the Congress seems to have worked with an objective to wean away the upper caste votes from the BJP ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha election and 2025 state Assembly polls. Singh is considered close to RJD chief Lalu Prasad. He will succeed Madan Mohan Jha, who is a Brahmin.

Singh's appointment also shows the Congress' optimism in making a dent in the upper caste votes at a time when odds are stacked against the BJP in terms of the social equations as the other six constituents — RJD, JD(U), CPI(ML), CPM, CPI and HAM — have a good support base among non-upper caste voters.

Bhumihars, in a bid to assert themselves politically, have also shown a growing impatience with the BJP, and hence may extract more political space from the saffron party. In the Bochaha bye-election earlier this year, a good number of Bhumihar voters had voted in favour of the RJD candidate, much to the dismay of BJP.

The RJD and JD(U) have also been showing their trust in the upper caste leaders. JD(U) president Rajiv Ranjan Singh, has retained his post as he enjoys full support of Bihar CM Nitish Kumar. Nitish faces the challenge of retaining the support of upper caste voters after he snapped ties with the NDA. Similarly, RJD chief Lalu Prasad who mostly depended on OBC votes, persuaded Jagdanand Singh, a Rajput leader, to continue on the post of state party president. Jagdanand was reluctant as he was sulking over his son Sudhakar Singh being asked to resign as state agriculture minister following his differences with Nitish.

However, Chirag Paswan also made Raju Tiwari, a Brahmin, the state president of his LJP (Ram Vilas) party. Chirag has campaigned for BJP in three recent bypolls in the state.

Cong drops Brahmin, OBC dist chiefs to adjust Muslims, Dalits

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ranchi

AMID controversy over not giving proper representation to Muslims and Dalits in the recently issued list of district Congress presidents in Jharkhand, the party on Tuesday withdrew names of four of its newly-appointed district presidents following protest from its Muslim and Dalit cadres. In a hastily-prepared revised list of district presidents, the All India Congress Committee dropped three Brahmins and one OBC from the list. Apparently, the decision was taken to accommodate three Muslims and one Dalit. The revised list had three Brahmins — Shantanu Mishra (Ramgarh), Srikant Tiwari (Garhwa), Anil Kumar Ojha (Sahibganj) and one OBC Narayan Barnwal (Koderma). In the revised list released by AICC general secretary KC Venugopal, Mishra has been replaced by Munna Paswan, Tiwari has been replaced by Obedulla Haq Ansari, Ojha has been replaced by Barkatulla Khan and Bernwal has been replaced by Bhairath Paswan. Those who have been dropped from the list will be inducted as office-bearers. Notably, Muslim and Dalit leaders were not pleased after the list was released on Monday and had staged demonstrations and burnt effigies of party state president Rajesh Thakur.

Two-day houseboat fest in Srinagar to woo tourists during winter season

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

Houseboats on Dal Lake in Srinagar | ZAHOOR PUNJABI

IN order to woo tourists to the iconic houseboats on world famous Dal Lake and Nageen Lake in Srinagar, a two-day houseboat festival is being held from Wednesday. Director Tourism Kashmir Fazlul Haseeb told this newspaper that the two-day festival would be inaugurated by J&K Lt Governor Manoj Sinha.

There are about 950 houseboats in Dal and Nageen lakes and thousands of families are dependent on it for their livelihood. The houseboats are a major attraction of tourists in the picturesque Kashmir. The visitors to the two-day festival will be apprised about the history of houseboats and the celebrities who have stayed in them.

The major attractions of the festival will be an art exhibition and a photo wall on the history and historical aspects of houseboats. Other attractions include water screen projects with laser show, illuminated shikara carnival, shikara rides, food court among others.

Besides, live musical concerts and band performances by local artists and traditional folk performances would also be held. A record number of over two million tourists visited Kashmir this year so far and the houseboats in Dal Lake and Nageen Lake witnessed 80-90 per cent occupancy this year.

However, with the onset of winter and cold weather conditions, the occupancy has dropped in the houseboats. Kashmir House Boat Owners Association chairman G R Siah said that at present the houseboats have 20-30 per cent occupancy. Director Tourism said through the Houseboat Festival, they want to send a message to the tourists that Kashmir is truly warm in winters as well. The houseboat owners said had the festival been organized in October, it would have been more fruitful.

361 adoptions within 2 months of amended JJ Act

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

PROCESS GEARS PACE

Of the 905 adoption cases pending, 361 adoption orders issued since notification of amended Juvenile Justice Act (JJ Act), 2015

JJ Act has shifted the power to issue adoption orders from the courts to the district magistrate	Adoption procedure reduced from over three years to two months	After the notification was issued on September 23, a total of 589 children have been adopted till today

OF the 905 adoption cases pending with the various courts in the country, as many as 361 adoption orders have been issued in just two months since the amended Juvenile Justice Act (JJ Act), 2015 was notified in September, officials said on Tuesday.

The amended JJ Act, which shifted the power to issue adoption orders from the courts to the district magistrate, helped fast-track the adoption procedure from over three years to two months, officials of the Women and Child Development Ministry (WCD) added.

"There were 905 adoption orders pending with the court on September 23; now, it has come down to 644. A total of 361 adoption orders have been issued," the official said, adding that constant efforts are being made to reduce the pendency of adoption orders, keeping in mind the welfare of the children.

After the notification was issued on September 23, a total of 589 children have been adopted till today.

In fact, it was through the ministry's push that hard to place children were also adopted, with 42 such children finding safe homes.

According to the ministry, there are around 28,000 prospective adoptive parents (PAPs) looking to adopt while there are around 2,500 children who are legally free — no one is available to look after them - for adoption. Children placed in foster care by Child Welfare Committees (CWC) used to wait for five years for adoption. Now, the new regulations provide that if the child adjusts well with the foster family, the foster family can adopt the child after two years of fostering.

The official said intensive interactions were made with all district magistrates (DMs), CWCs, district child protection units and specialised adoption agencies and chief medical officers after the notification of Adoption Regulations 2022 in September.

To promote in-country adoptions, a new provision has been made in the Adoption Regulations 2022 under which those children who could not find families within their stipulated referral cycles are now being offered to willing resident Indians, non-resident Indians and overseas citizens of India, irrespective of their seniority.

"This step has been immensely welcomed by prospective adoptive parents. The first referral under the provision was run on 14.11.22 and so far 42 children have been reserved. These children would have otherwise been referred to foreign PAPs," officials said.

Under the amended regulations, the prospective adoptive parents can opt for their home states/region to ensure that the child and the family adjust well with each other, belonging to the same socio-cultural milieu.

"The module became operational from November 10 and since then 1,804 resident Indians, 11 NRIs, 8 Overseas Citizens of India, 28 foreigners and one case under the Hindu Adoptions and Maintenance Act have been registered on the new module," the official said.

In a bid to reduce pendency of cases, the Central Adoption Resource Authority (CARA) has been taking proactive efforts.

Indonesia bars sex outside marriage

JAKARTA

INDONESIA'S Parliament unanimously passed a long-awaited revision of the country's penal code on Tuesday that criminalises sex outside of marriage for citizens as well as foreigners, prohibits promotion of contraception and bans defamation of the president and state institutions.

The amended code says sex outside marriage is punishable by a year in jail and cohabitation by six months, but adultery charges must be based on police reports lodged by a spouse, parents or children. It restores a ban on insulting a sitting president or vice president, state institutions and the national ideology. Insults to a sitting president must be reported by the president and can lead to up to three years in jail.

The amended code also expands an existing blasphemy law and maintains a five-year prison term for deviations from the central tenets of Indonesia's six recognised religions: Islam, Protestantism, Catholicism, Hinduism, Buddhism and Confucianism. AP

Russia faces latest attack at Kursk airport

An industrial plant 80 km from the Ukrainian border was also targeted by drones, the Kremlin media reported

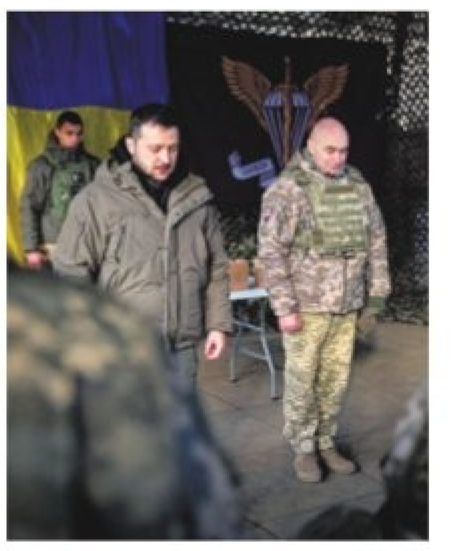
KYIV

DRONES struck inside Russia's border with Ukraine on Tuesday in the second day of attacks exposing the vulnerability of some of Moscow's most important military sites, observers said.

A fire broke out at an airport in Russia's southern Kursk region that borders Ukraine after a drone hit the facility, the region's governor said on Tuesday. In a second incident, an industrial plant 80 kilometres from the Ukrainian border was also targeted by drones, which missed a fuel depot at the site, Russian independent media reported.

Ukrainian officials did not formally confirm carrying out drone strikes inside Russia and they have maintained ambiguity over previous high-profile attacks.

But Ukrainian presidential adviser Mikhail Podolyak taunted Moscow in comments on Twitter, and Britain's Defense Ministry said Russia was likely to consider the attacks on Russian bases more than 500 kilometres from the border with Ukraine as "some of the most strategically significant failures of force protection since its invasion of Ukraine."



Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy stands during a minute of silence in honour of soldiers killed during a visit in Sloviansk, Ukraine on Tuesday | AP

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said that Russian authorities will "take the necessary measures" to enhance protection of key facilities. Russian bloggers who generally maintain contacts with officials in their nation's military criticised the lack of defensive measures.

"If something is launched into other countries' airspace, sooner or later unknown flying objects will return to the point of departure," Ukrainian presidential adviser Mikhail Podolyak taunted Moscow in comments on Twitter. "The earth is round."

In the aftermath, Russian troops carried out another wave of missile strikes on Ukrainian territory struck homes and buildings and killed civilians, compounding damage done to power and other infrastructure over weeks of missile attacks.

Approximately half of households in the Kyiv region remain without electricity, the regional governor said on Tuesday, while authorities in the southern Odesa say they have managed to restore power to hospitals.

In a new display of defiance, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy travelled to an eastern city near the front line. Marking Ukraine's Armed Forces Day, Zelenskyy travelled to the eastern Donetsk region and vowed to push Russian forces out of all of Ukraine's territory. AP

Kyiv slams New Delhi for buying oil from Moscow

NEW DELHI

UKRAINE'S foreign minister condemned India's ramping up of Russian oil purchases following Moscow's invasion as "morally inappropriate" in an interview broadcast on Tuesday. A day earlier, India's top diplomat had defended the purchases of discounted Russian crude, saying Europe's imports still dwarfed those of his country despite the continent's efforts to reduce its dependence. But Ukraine's Dmytro Kuleba said it was "completely wrong" to justify buying oil from Russia "by arguing that Europeans were doing the same". It was "morally inappropriate", he said.

"Because you are buying cheap oil not because of Europeans but because of us, of our suffering, of our tragedy, and because of the war that Russia launched against Ukraine."

India has increased its purchases of cheap Russian oil sixfold since the invasion in February, to the extent that Moscow is now its top crude supplier.

The government says that with millions of poor Indians hit hard by the global rise in commodity prices in the wake of the war, it has no choice but to buy the cheapest oil possible. On Monday, India's foreign minister S. Jaishankar said his country's costs were being driven up by European countries now buying up more oil and gas from the Middle East. "The Middle East was traditionally a supplier for an economy like India, so it puts pressure on prices in the Middle East as well," Jaishankar said. AFP

Vodafone must get new investment: Govt

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

Vodafone Idea financial woes

- Vi net debt (excluding lease liabilities) is ₹2.2 lakh crore as of Sept 30, 2022
- It owes ₹7,000 crore to Indus Tower
- Vodafone idea has been trying hard to onboard investors, but has failed to do so
- It could only raise ₹4,500 crore from its promoters Aditya Birla Group and Vodafone Group
- VIL had earlier opted for converting govt dues into equity, after which the govt will hold 33% in the company

EVEN as Vodafone-Idea (Vi) remains clueless on the government's stance on converting its dues into equity, sources in the government say the telecom operator must try to get investors and raise fresh capital to survive in the market instead of waiting for the government to pick up stake in the company.

A government official told this newspaper fresh investment by Vi will show they want to remain in the Indian market and that would make the government consider holding a stake in the telco.

"The equity conversation will not give Vi any major relief from the dues, which the company has to pay anyway," the official said. The official further added that the need of the hour for Vi is large investments by its promoters. If one partner (primarily referring to Vodafone) is not interested in running its business in India then they should pass their stake to the other partner (referring to billionaire Kumar Mangalam Birla, added the official.

India's third-largest telco Vodafone Idea has been trying hard to onboard investors since 2022, but failed to get any. It could only raise ₹4,500 crore from its promoters Aditya Birla Group and Vodafone Group. However, its chief executive officer Akshaya Moondra reportedly said it is in advanced talks with investors to raise fresh capital to upgrade its 4G service and roll out 5G. Currently, the company's net debt (excluding lease liabilities) is ₹2.2 lakh crore as of September 30, 2022. It owes ₹12,000 crore to vendors like Indus Tower, ATC, Nokia, etc. Meanwhile, Vi on Tuesday said its proposal to issue ₹1,600 crore debentures to mobile tower vendor ATC Telecom Infrastructure has lapsed in absence of any response from the government on the conversion of interest dues into equity.

"As the company has not received any communication from the Government of India on such conversion, the issuance of optionally convertible debentures (OCDs) to ATC has not been completed, within the validity period of the shareholders resolution," said the company in an exchange filing. VIL had opted for converting government dues into equity, after which the government will hold nearly 33% in the company.

WB APPROVES CONCESSIONAL FUNDING REQUEST

he World Bank has approved Sri Lanka's request to access concessional financing from the International Development Association (IDA). The concessional financing will enable the country to implement its reform program to stabilize the economy. The IDA is one of the largest sources of funding for fighting extreme poverty in the world's poorest and most vulnerable countries through grants or low interest loans. With Sri Lanka becoming an IDA country, technical assistance, and policy advice towards economic recovery will also be provided by the World Bank. World Bank Vice President for Development Finance, Akihiko Nishio said that the World Bank will support Sri Lanka as it implements reforms to reduce poverty and rebuild the economy. Since 2017, Sri Lanka has been termed creditworthy for lending from the World Bank's International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

PHILIPPINES

'ON TRACK TO LOSE GROWTH MOMENTUM IN 2023'

The Philippine central bank may pause its interest rate hikes in the first quarter of next year if there are "no major shocks", its governor said on Tuesday. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas has raised policy rates six times this year to 5.0% to curb inflation, running near 14-year highs, and support the peso which has fallen sharply against the dollar, because of aggressive U.S. monetary tightening. Governor Felipe Medalla told reporters his own "base case scenario" is that the Federal Reserve will pause policy tightening in the first quarter of 2023, easing pressure on the BSP to match its policy actions. The Fed has raised borrowing costs faster this year than at any time since the early 1980s, using jumps of 75 bps at each of the last four meetings to bring the policy rate to its current 3.75%-4% range. Fed policymakers have signaled they may move more slowly starting at their meeting next month, even as some including Fed Chair Jerome Powell have signaled interest rates may ultimately need to go higher. BSP's Medalla said the central bank has room to respond to any Fed move either "fully or partially", depending on data. The central bank, which meets every six weeks, will meet for the last time this year on December, 15.

TAIWAN

EXPORTS LIKELY DROPPED IN NOVEMBER

Taiwan's exports likely dropped in November for the third month in a row and at a much sharper pace, amid fears of a global recession, uncertainties due to the war in Ukraine, and COVID-19 flare-ups in China, according to a Reuters poll. Taiwan, a global hub for chip production and a key supplier to Apple Inc, is one of Asia's leading exporters of technology goods. The trade data is seen as an important gauge of world demand for tech gadgets. Exports last month were estimated to have dropped 6.7% from a year earlier, faster than the 0.5% contraction in October. The export forecasts varied widely, suggesting a contraction of between 0.67% and 10.7%, reflecting uncertainties over the global economy, supply chain disruptions due to pandemic lockdowns and power shortages in China, as well as the fallout of Russia and Ukraine war. Taiwan's finance ministry had predicted November exports could contract in a range of 5% to 8% from a year earlier. Separately, the consumer price index was expected to have risen 2.5% in November from a year earlier, slower than the 2.72% in October.

Govt allows foreign funds to own more than 51% in IDBI Bank

Govt looking to offload 60.7% stake in IDBI Bank

Govt said IDBI will continue with its primary dealer business even if a foreign bank buys majority shareholding and management control. Govt is looking to offload 60.72% in the bank. Successful bidder will have to make an open offer for acquisition of 5.28% of the public shareholding

THE central government has allowed consortium of foreign funds and investment companies to own more than 51% in IDBI Bank, the Department of Investment & Public Asset Management (DIPAM) said on Tuesday.

According to the current norms of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), foreign entities can't have ownership in new private banks.

"The residency criteria would not apply to a consortium consisting of funds investment vehicles incorporated outside India," the government said in a reply to interested bidders queries section. It also added that it would consider relaxing the 5-year lock-in period for shares if a non-banking financial company (NBFC) is merged into IDBI.

Besides this, the government said IDBI would continue with its primary dealer business even if a foreign bank acquires majority shareholding and management control in the private sector bank. As part of the primary dealer activity, IDBI is involved in market making activities in respect of G-secs including t-Bills. IDBI's treasury also provides constituent subsidiary general ledger (CSGL) service to Gilt accountholders having accounts with it.

The government on October 7 had invited bids for the EoI of IDBI Bank for which the last date is December 16. Both government and the Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) hold 94.71% in IDBI Bank. The government is looking to offload 60.72% in the state-owned bank. The successful bidder will have to make an open offer of acquisition of 5.28% of the public shareholding.

Earlier, DIPAM had said that the potential buyers should have a minimum net worth of ₹22,500 crore and must report net profit in three out of the last five years to qualify to bid for the bank. In addition, a maximum of four members would be permitted in a consortium. Also, the successful bidder would be required to mandatorily lock-in at least 40% of the equity capital for five years from the date of acquisition.

WB revises upwards FY23 GDP to 6.9%, Fitch pegs growth at 7%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

INDIA'S economic outlook in the current financial year look much better as the World Bank revises India's gross domestic product (GDP) growth rate for FY 23 to 6.9% from 6.5% earlier. Meanwhile, Fitch Rating has also retained the FY23 economic growth forecast to 7% on account of expansion in consumption and investment.

The World Bank in its latest report has said that India has shown higher resilience to the global shockwaves. It said in its report that India is economically well-positioned to deal with the global economic slowdown as against other emerging countries.

It added that fall in the US economic growth is associated with a 0.4 percentage point fall in India's growth, the effect of which is nearly 1.5 times greater than for other emerging economies. Thus, the impact of slowdown in the US will have a muted effect on India's GDP outlook.

It has upgraded India's economic outlook to 6.9% for the current fiscal. In the month of October it had cut the country's growth outlook to 6.5% from 7.5%. However, it has said that India's economic growth will slow down to 6.6% in FY24.

Meanwhile, Fitch Ratings has said that the Indian economy grew more than expected in the third quarter, increasing 6.3% year-on-year owing to a large boost from consumption and investment, above than its September forecast of 5.5%.

"Given the stronger-than-expected outturn, we have increased our growth forecast to 7.0% in the financial year ending March 2023 (FY23). India is expected to record one of the fastest growth rates among emerging markets in our Fitch20 coverage this year," Fitch said.

Fitch said that India is shielded to some extent from global economic shocks given the domestically focused nature of its economy, with consumption and investment making up the bulk of the country's GDP.

'Duty cut on CNG needed until included in GST'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE government should reduce the excise duty it levies on CNG till natural gas is included in the GST regime, Kirit Parikh Committee has recommended.

The panel, formed to recommend fair price of gas to the end consumer and a "market-oriented, transparent and reliable pricing regime", in its report to petroleum ministry last week suggested "gas should be brought under GST regime".

Currently, natural gas is outside the ambit of GST or any other taxes -- central excise duty, state VAT and central sales tax -- applicable on the fuel. The government doesn't levy excise duty on natural gas when sold in gaseous form but it charges 14% levy on compressed natural gas (CNG). States levy VAT as high as 24.5% on gas. "The panel recognise that this requires consensus among the states. To obtain this, if need be the states may be compensated for five years for any loss in revenue. The process of getting the needed consensus should be initiated now," reads the report.

Natural gas along with crude oil, petrol, diesel and ATF were kept out of the GST regime when the single rate of taxation for goods and services was rolled out on July 1, 2017.

However, the gas-producing states such as Gujarat feared a loss of revenue if VAT and other taxes were to get subsumed into the GST. "Till the time the GST regime is implemented, government may consider moderating the central excise duty rate on CNG to reduce the burden of higher natural gas costs on consumers," the report said. "The committee believes that this is the ideal long-term policy since all stakeholders' interests are protected and since the impact on government finances is positive."

The panel suggested ceiling and floor prices for a majority of domestically produced gas to help moderate rates of CNG. Bringing natural gas under the goods and services tax (GST) regime will help realise the government's vision for a gas-based economy and raise the share of environment-friendly fuel in India's energy basket.

Maruti recalls 9,125 cars, third time in quick succession

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

MARUTI SUZUKI INDIA (MSIL) is recalling 9,125 units of its models Ciaz, Brezza, Ertiga, XL6 and Grand Vitara to fix possible defects in a parts of the front row seat belts.

The affected vehicles were manufactured between November 2-28, 2022, country's largest carmaker said in a regulatory filing on Tuesday.

"It is suspected that there is a possible defect in one of the child parts of shoulder height adjuster assembly of front row seat belts, which in a rare case, may lead to seat belt disassembly," it said.

The company said it has decided to recall the suspected vehicles for inspection and replacement of the faulty part, free of cost.

This is the third time is quick succession when the carmaker has initiated a recall.

In October, the carmaker had recalled 9,925 units of its three models, Wagon R, Celerio and Ignis, to rectify a possible defect in rear brake assembly pin and in September it had recalled 5,002 super carry vehicles produced between May 4, 2022, and July 30, 2022, to fix a possible defect with seat belt.

The spree of recalls come amidst shortages of semiconductors which is said to impact MSIL's production capacity.

The carmaker on Friday had informed that it expects a shortage of electronic components to impact its production in December more than in recent months.

MSIL's production in November, which also saw a minor impact" due to the shortage, rose 5% year-on-year to 152,786 units, but was at the lowest level since June.

Real estate sector resolution rate under IBC among lowest: Report

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE resolution rate of real estate sector under the Insolvency & Bankruptcy Code (IBC) is among the lowest even as it comprises only 5% of all cases under the code, a joint report by property consultant Anarock and leading law firm Khaitan & Co said.

IBC has driven better value realisation by creditors in real estate – with this class of creditors realising 66% of the admitted claims as compared to 31% of admitted claims realised in other sectors. Since IBC code was implemented in 2016, 25,225 cases involving ₹10.5 lakh crore have been disposed of.

Top names that are admitted resolution in the sector include

Ariisto Developers, Unitech Ltd, Supertech, Radius Estates, Jaypee Infratech, Amrapali Group, Lavasa Corp, and DS Kulkarni. The report said one of the milestones in the evolution of IBC was an amendment which recognises homebuyers as financial creditors. Under this code, homebuyers are now considered at par with banks and other institutional creditors when it comes to recovering dues from developers who have gone bankrupt. IBC's framework is designed keeping in mind a resolution timeline of 330 days. However, the time it takes for a resolution plan to be accepted is usually much longer than that. Of the 17 cases, average time taken to resolve insolvencies stood at 1.8 years.

Kumar Saurabh Singh, partner, Khaitan & Co, adds, "The insolvency resolution of real estate companies has its own challenges. Due to the involvement of homebuyers in real estate project and a high level of public interest, the courts have adopted a purposive stance to surmount the unique legal issues that emanate from the insolvency resolution of the real estate sector."

Rupee falls 81 paise on corporate dollar demand

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AFTER scripting a strong comeback from the low of 83.3 in October 2022, rupee has once again come under pressure from a strengthening dollar. The local currency on Tuesday shed 81 paise to close at 82.62 a dollar.

Rupee has since December 1 depreciated by 1.8% against the dollar mainly due to a strengthening US currency. Tuesday's slump, however, was attributed to unwinding of carry trades and corporate dollar demand.

"Once the spot crossed 82, stops may have been triggered by importers and bank dealers and that accentuated the rise (of dollar)," says Anindya Banerjee, VP - currency derivatives & interest rate derivatives at Kotak Securities Ltd.

US dollar has rallied recently on the back of upbeat economic data from the US and a surge in the US treasury yields.

Muted domestic sentiments, surge in crude oil prices and FII outflows have also contributed to the recent fall in rupee.

Since Monday, the foreign institutional investors (FIIs) have sold ₹1,800 crore worth of Indian equities.

In the past five trading sessions, Indian equity markets have remained flat with minor decline.

On Tuesday, the Sensex declined by 208 points or 0.33% to close at 62,626 after having breached the 63,000 level for the first time on November 30.

'WE ARE UBER OF DRONES,' SAYS GARUDA AEROSPACE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

CHENNAI-BASED Garuda Aerospace has adopted drones as the service route to cater to the growing demand of drones in the agriculture industry.

"We're like Uber for drones," said Agnishwar Jayaprakash, founder and chief executive officer of Garuda. Speaking to this newspaper, he said the company has bagged orders worth $1.2 billion or nearly ₹8,800 crore from farmers and farm science centers.

"We got orders for around 22 crores acres from the total 40 crore acres (apx.) of farmable land in India, so we have captured 50% market. To execute the projects we need 4-5 lakh drones," he said.

"Farmers only utilize drones as services not as products as the land holding pattern in India is 1- 1.5 acres, so we're selling drones to service providers such as dealers, distributors, FPOs (Farmer Producer Organisations), FPCs (Farmer Producer Company), village entrepreneurs and large farmers. They will rent out the drones to smaller farmers in the form of a contract," he explained the reason behind the model.

Small and marginal farmers have to pay Rs 400 to Rs 500 / acre for spraying pesticides and fertilizers in their field. He said it reduces pesticide usage up to 70% and reduces water usage up to 80%. He further said that, "Drones were able to cover 25- 30 acres a day while manual labourers could only cover 2-3 acres per day."

Agnishwar Jayaprakash was speaking on the side lines of Garuda Aerospace opens country's first Drone skilling and training e-learning platform at its Chennai manufacturing facility. It was inaugurated by Union Minister for Information and Broadcasting, Anurag Singh Thakur.

The demand for the drones has also increased the demand for remote pilots and start-ups try to bridge the skill gap with this training.

Agriculture drones form 65% of the company's products. Among many other applications it also focuses on logistics space for delivering food and medicines.

"We have partnered with Swiggy for drone deliveries. We're looking at various model, not just roof tops but hub and spoke models like we fly the food to a nearest delivery agent," he said.

It's like watching vintage Brazil

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

AFTER Brazil's national consciousness-altering loss in the final of the 1950 World Cup, the authorities launched a campaign to change the colour of the side's jersey. The campaign — a national-level competition — had one basic guideline. The new kit should contain the four colours of the national flag (green, yellow, blue and white). A teenager, Aldyr Garcia Schlee, came up with the winning design. Yellow shirt, blue short, white socks and a tinge of green around the collar.

Five years later, Selecao, with a 17-year-old Pele in the side, dazzled the world in the country's new kit. Since then, the yellow jersey has sort of become a symbol for hedonistic brilliance. One-touch pass and move magic as if the sport was entirely conjured up in a dream factory. On Monday, Brazil treated the watching world to exactly that. They distilled sport into what it truly is. Fun. An exercise in entertaining the public who had either paid for match tickets or taken out a subscription to watch the match on cable TV or on an OTT platform. It was the Harlem Globetrotters bringing out their greatest hits.

Seal dribbles. Dizzying, carousel passing. One-touch finishes. Free-style skills near the centre-circle. And dancing. Oh, there was a lot of dancing. It was the night Brazil — heavily touted to win this edition because of the embarrassment of attacking riches at their disposal — truly arrived at this World Cup. You could even argue this was a 90-minute soliloquy where Brazil truly displayed the frightening characteristics that this side possesses. If Pele had tuned in from the Hospital Israelita Albert Einstein in Sao Paulo, where he is currently undergoing treatment for colon cancer, it would have brought a smile to his face. At some level, this was Brazil showing Pele that the next generation — this generation — knows what it's like to play in the yellow jersey. "You need not worry because your legacy is safe, secure and sound with us," was seemingly the message. After the match, the players brought out a big banner dedicated to Pele.

The match itself — at least the first 45 minutes — was Brazil from a different era. Gone were the superstars who felt the yellow jersey was additional baggage. This was a Brazil you had read about in newspaper reports in the days of black and white. This was a Brazil you had seen in official World Cup films before the advent of colour TVs. This was a Brazil the football world had fallen in love with in 1982, even if they didn't win the whole thing. Titles and trophies are overrated, anyway. This was a Brazil that made you want them to score even more than the four first-half goals they ended up scoring. Forget supporting the underdogs. When Brazil play like that, you throw out one of the sport's greatest unwritten rules — backing the underdogs — out the window.

Coach Tite welcomed back Neymar into the fold and less than 300 seconds later, there was an inkling of the night ahead. Brazil's front three of Neymar, Vinicius Jnr and Richarlison combined for the first time. Even if the move came to nothing, it was a warning shot to South Korea, who had seemingly decided the best form of defence was offence. They had decided on a high-line plus full-backs who would join in.

Two minutes later, Vinicius was wheeling away in celebration. Raphinha picked up the ball on the right channel and drove at the defence before escaping the attention of one Korean defender. His cut back was inch perfect for the onrushing Vinicius who finished the move with his toe.

Six minutes later, Richarlison was fouled inside the box and Neymar sent the keeper the wrong way before caressing the ball the other way.

If the first 28 minutes were extraordinary, the next 60 seconds or so were otherworldly. Football that belonged in video games. Richarlison dribbled the ball thrice on his forehead — a move known as seal dribble — passed the ball, received it before he opened his body for the simplest of finishes with his left foot. South Korea would have quite liked if they had the option of going home and restarting again another day.

Seven minutes later, the Selecao were dancing. Again. With vast open spaces at the back, Richarlison picked the ball and drove before releasing Neymar who spotted Vinicius on his outside. The Real Madrid man clipped a cross for Lucas Pacqueta whose first-time shot went through a mass of South Korean legs before nestling into the net.

After the break, Brazil declared at four. South Korea, to be fair, kept trying, kept pushing. They had multiple chances before Paik Seung-ho's strike from outside the box finally beat Alisson Becker. But it was going to be nothing more than consolation, a footnote to a Brazilian party.

When I got injured I spent a very difficult night. I was thinking of a million different things. I had been crying a lot. QUICK PASSES

Bierhoff quits after Germany early exit

DOHA: Oliver Bierhoff is the first managerial casualty of Germany's early World Cup exit after agreeing to resign as managing director of the country's national football teams and academy. The German football federation said on Monday that Bierhoff agreed to prematurely end his contract. It was due to run through the 2024 European Championship. Germany is set to host that tournament.

Betting down in Vegas but higher than expected

DOHA: Las Vegas sportsbook directors weren't overly optimistic the betting would be higher than the 2018 World Cup, however, the World Cup still makes an impact, and it was larger than expected in Las Vegas, the hub of domestic sports betting. Jay Kornegay, vice president of race and sports operations at Westgate Las Vegas, compared WC matches during a more typical time of the year being bet on the same level as NFL games.

Eto'o sorry for altercation after WC game

DOHA: Cameroon football federation president and former star player Samuel Eto'o apologized for kicking a man to the ground in what he called a "violent altercation" outside a stadium on Tuesday. Eto'o had paused to pose for photos with fans near Stadium 974 after Brazil beat South Korea 4-1. Footage circulating on social media showed him then reacting to comments by a man holding a camera.

Portugal to start without Ronaldo vs Swiss

DOHA: Cristiano Ronaldo will not start for Portugal in the last 16 clash against Switzerland late on Tuesday night. The 37-year-old has had a sub-par tournament up until this point, having just one penalty goal to show in the group stages. Ronaldo's body language on being substituted midway through the second half of a 2-1 loss to South Korea on Friday did not please coach Fernando Santos. When asked if he still trusted his captain, Santos said he decides the captain only after reaching the stadium.

Goalkeeper, who has conceded only once in four matches, is shootout king as team advances to quarterfinals for first time

Express POST
SIDDHANTH ANEY @ DOHA

THERE is always plenty of context to a Morocco-Spain football game. From the Islamic conquest of Spain that was launched from the shores of north Africa in the 8th century, to the more recent Spanish occupation to the last time these sides faced off at the World Cup, four years ago, a match that ended in controversy with VAR rearing its ugly head. Tens of thousands of Moroccans from all over the world thronged the Education City Stadium in Doha to witness the latest chapter. They brought all the colour and the noise on a cool Tuesday night. Despite their best efforts, though, The Battle for Andalusia ended in a stalemate. In open play, that is. After 120 minutes of football there was nothing to separate the two sides. But this is, of course, the knockout round of a World Cup and there are no draws. Having kept their goals unbreached through open play it was now down to Unai Simon and Yassine Bounou (Bono) to step to the plate and see it through.

Pablo Sarabia, brought on by Spanish coach Luis Enrique in the 118th minute had, perhaps the best chance of the game for the 2010 world champions, clipping the outside of the post from an almost impossible angle with what was to be pretty much the final move of the game (could have been offside too). He stepped up, undoubtedly part of the plan, to take Spain's first penalty. With unerring precision, once again, Sarabia rattled Bono's left post, sending the Moroccans into rapture. The six-foot-five-and-a-half Morocco keeper, who plays his club football in Spain with Sevilla, seemed to have been part of Enrique's World Cup preparations. Simon and Bono had a nice moment before the penalties knowing, perhaps better than most, that penalties at this level of football are not down to luck.

HOW IT ALL UNFOLDED

MOROCCO	✓	✓	✗	✓
SPAIN	✗	✗	✗

Morocco won 3-0 on penalties

Enrique is another believer in that concept, both from a keeper's perspective as well as for those taking spot kicks. In the pre match press conference on Monday, the Spanish coach explained at great length his ideas on penalty shootouts. "Over a year ago, in many national camps we told players, 'You have homework ahead of the World Cup. You must take at least 1,000 penalties with the club'," he said. "You can't just train them when they're with the national team. I don't think it's a lottery. If you train often, then the way you take penalties improves. Obviously, you can't train the pressure and tension, but you can cope with it."

And on the day it was Morocco who coped with the pressure, the tension and the execution much better. After Sarabia's miss Hakim Ziyech put Morocco 2–0 up on penalties. Then came the Bono show. He showed exactly how well prepared he was by saving off both Carlos Soler and Spanish captain Sergio Busquets to lead his team, the first from Africa to make it to the World Cup quarterfinals since Senegal in 2010.

"We felt the support of our people, be it in Morocco or any other part of the world. That's what gave us the impetus. I offer this gift of joy to all of our people and thank all the players for the effort they put in tonight. When you're in the thick of it you don't realise what you have achieved. As time goes on maybe we will realise it. For now we are just happy," Bono said after the game.

Since Walid Regragui took over as coach of Morocco less than 90-days before the tournament began he has worked the Atlas Lions into a formidable defensive unit. In eight games they have only conceded one goal. There is a strong argument to be made for his first-choice full-back pairing of right-back Achraf Hakimi (Paris Saint-Germain) and Noussair Mazraoui (FC Bayern Munich) on the left, might just be the most formidable at the World Cup. On the night the two ran relentlessly, and alongside the likes of Sofyan Amrabat, who showed a version of himself we have not seen since his days at Verona in the Serie A, and Azzedine Ounahi showed not just heart but also flair and technical ability to rival the very best.

Hakimi can often be found attacking the back post and is also a key player in build-up. Tonight he had the most touches (32) and passes attempted (22) in the opening 45 minutes. Regragui has called Hakimi a "warrior" and is very much part of the process he initiated to bring the best Moroccan players into the national team. Back in 1998 only two players in the World Cup squad were born outside the country. Under Regragui the number has gone up to 14; the highest in the tournament. This is despite strong opposition to foreign born players among a large section of the Moroccan media and criticism of players in the past, such as Hakim Ziyech and Marouane Chamakh.

One of the first things Regragui did when he took over as coach was to call Ziyech and Mazraoui back into the fold. The rest, as he says, he will think about when he is old and retired.

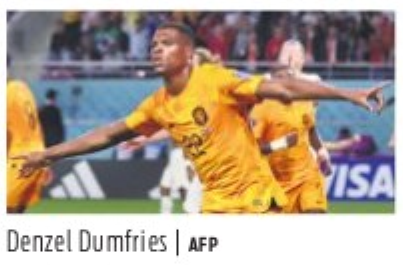
Dumfries dazzles

AFP @Doha

DENZEL Dumfries had a slow start at the World Cup but the Netherlands wing-back hit his stride in spectacular style in the last-16 match against the United States.

The Inter Milan defender — one of the breakout stars at last year's Euro 2020 — provided two assists and scored the third goal in a 3-1 win to help set up Friday's quarterfinal clash with Argentina.

The Dutch will need to find a way of stopping Lionel Messi as the seven-time Ballon d'Or winner continues his quest for a maiden World Cup title. But coach Louis van Gaal will be hoping that his side can expose gaps behind the Argentina defence on the counter-attack, for which Dumfries and fellow wing-back Daley Blind will be crucial.



Denzel Dumfries | AFP

The pair assisted each other's goals in the victory over the Americans as Van Gaal's 3-4-1-2 formation paid dividends. "He is (important). He got a lot of criticism in the first games but we know what he can do and he showed it today," midfielder Davy Klaassen said after the last-16 tie.

"In this system the wing-backs are really important and if you see them assisting each other today, this is what you want." Kylian Mbappe is the tournament's leading scorer with five goals, while other wingers to impress include England pair Marcus Rashford and Bukayo Saka and Brazil's Vinicius Junior. Wide players have been more important than usual in Qatar, according to Arsene Wenger, now FIFA's football development chief. "The sides with the best wingers are those who have the best chances to win because the game is changing towards the wings," said Wenger.

Dybala, Serie A standout, not needed by Argentina

STEVE DOUGLAS @ Doha

PAULO Dybala posted a photo of himself on Instagram laughing along with his Argentina teammate Lionel Messi, with the accompanying words: "We carry on with a smile! Let's go." Argentina might be getting ever closer to a place in the World Cup final but, on a purely personal level, the tournament has been nothing much to laugh about for Dybala.

The Roma playmaker hasn't played a minute in Qatar, despite the injuries afflicting Argentina on its turbulent run to the quarterfinals and the declining form of forward Lautaro Martinez.

So what's the deal with Dybala, a player affectionately known as La Joya (or "The Jewel") and a standout in Italian soccer at his best? His biggest impediment is Lionel Messi himself. Dybala's preferred position is in the No. 10 position or the roving role off the striker – which happens to be where Argentina's superstar is best deployed.

Given there's no way a healthy Messi is getting dropped, Dybala has to be moved into another position that doesn't necessarily suit his game. Then there's the thigh injury that almost cost him a place in Argentina coach Lionel Scaloni's squad for the World Cup. It was sustained when he converted a late, winning penalty for Roma in early October and led to him missing eight games for his club.

Dybala returned for Roma's last game before the World Cup, convincing Scaloni that he was healthy enough to be included in the 26-man squad. The coach insists that fitness problems aren't the reason why Dybala has yet to play at the World Cup.

"If he is out, it's only a tactical decision," Scaloni said during the group stage. "Paulo is fine, he is supporting the group from the outside. Obviously, he would like to play more."

That much can be said about his overall international career.

Dybala is 29 and has played 34 games — often as a substitute — for Argentina since his debut in 2015, which doesn't seem many for a player of his talent. The last of his three goals for the Albiceleste came as a late substitute in the 3-0 win over Italy in the Finalissima — a game between the European and South American champions — in London in June.

And his only game time at a World Cup was in 2018, as a 68th-minute substitute in the 3-0 loss to Croatia in the group stage. Argentina eventually exited in the round of 16 against France. There is a chance Dybala could see some action against the Netherlands in the quarterfinals on Friday, though. Ángel Di María was injured against Poland in the final group game and Papu Gómez, who replaced Di Maria in the 2-1 win over Australia in the round of 16, came off in that match with some discomfort in his ankle.

According to Argentine media, neither Di María nor Gómez trained with the rest of the squad on Monday, instead doing recovery work separately.

That might leave a place in the front three up for grabs against the Dutch.

Quoted in Italian newspaper Gazzetta Dello Sport on Monday, Dybala spoke of the "sacrifice" he made to get healthy again after the pre-tournament injury.

Mukesh takes six as B'desh all out for 252

SYLHET: Mukesh Kumar continued with his dream show with career-best figures of 6/40 as India A dismissed Bangladesh A for 252 in the second unofficial Test. He got good support from senior pacer Umesh Yadav (2/55 in 16 overs). Brief scores: B'desh A 252 in 80.5 overs (Shahadat 80, Jaker 62, Mukesh 6/40, Umesh 2/55) vs India A 12/0.

WHAT'S NEXT FOR JAPAN AFTER EXIT ON PENALTIES AT WORLD CUP

Japan reached the round of 16 for the fourth time at a World Cup. It got knocked out in the round of 16 for the fourth time in a 3-1 loss to Croatia on penalty kicks after a 1-1 draw in regulation and extra time.

EXPECTATION VS. PERFORMANCE

- Coach Hajime Moriyasu said for months that the Japan team's goal was to reach the quarterfinals for the first time. So by that standard, Japan under-performed.
- However, 2-1 victories over former World Cup champions Spain and Germany in the group stage showed Japan has improved enough to compete with top soccer nations.
- "Even though we could not break the wall of the round of 16 again, players demonstrated a new era of our soccer," Moriyasu said. Moriyasu talked of still needing to improve, but the coach said his players "can look eye-to-eye with anyone now."

WHAT'S NEXT?

Japan has qualified for the Asian Cup, a tournament it has won four times. The event, scheduled for January 2024, was moved to Qatar after China withdrew, citing COVID-19.

WHO'S OUT?

Fullback Yuto Nagatomo, 36, and goalkeeper Eiji Kawashima, 39, have each been on four World Cup squads and certainly will not return. Nagatomo played in all four games, but Kawashima never left the bench. Instead he served as a veteran mentor to the young team.

Captain and defender Maya Yoshida was in his third World Cup and, at 34, most likely his last. "I'm having trouble finding words to describe how I feel," Nagatomo said after the loss to Croatia. "We did everything we could until the very end. I trust that younger players, driven by this sense of regret, will make a better future for Japanese football."

WHO'S NEXT?

- Three names come immediately to mind. Midfielder Ritsu Doan, who plays at German club SC Freiburg, scored two goals and will certainly be a backbone of future teams. Another is midfielder Kaoru Mitoma, who is having at stellar season at Brighton & Hove Albion in England's Premier League.
- Mitoma was one of three Japanese players who missed their penalty kick in the shootout loss to Croatia.
- The third is another midfielder, Takefusa Kubo, a 21-year-old at Spanish club Real Sociedad.

NUGGETS & TRIVIA

USSR's renowned goalkeeper Lev Yashin—who played in four World Cups— is known for his spectacular saves and his panther-like reflexes on the field which earned him the moniker the "Black panther" or "Black spider"

Italy and Brazil are the only teams to win the World Cup twice in a row. Defending champions France are among frontrunners in the ongoing edition and have a chance to join Brazil and Italy in the list.

Across all World Cup matches, Argentina has received the most yellow cards. They have received 123 yellow cards. Meanwhile Brazil has received 11 red cards, the most of any squad. Next on the list is Uruguay, with nine red cards.

South Korea looks to youth post WC loss

STEPHEN WADE @ Doha

SOUTH Korea lost in the round of 16 of the World Cup and then lost its coach. The team was beaten by five-time champion Brazil 4-1 on Monday. After the match, South Korea coach Paulo Bento announced that he was stepping down to end his four-year stint. The Portuguese coach said he made the decision several months ago.

South Korea was knocked out of the 2019 Asian Cup in the quarterfinals, so reaching the last 16 in Qatar can be seen as a positive. South Korea was appearing in its 10th straight World Cup, and its 11th overall. This was the third time South Korea has reached the knockout round. It's best performance was in 2002 when it co-hosted the event with Japan and reached the semifinals.

A key figure missing will be Bento. However, the current group of players is arguably the best that South Korea has assembled, and most are relatively young. One of the older players is 30-year-old Son Heung-min, the star midfielder at English club Tottenham. Son failed to score in this World Cup after getting goals in the last two. He did get a beautiful assist on Hwang-Hee-chan's goal, which gave South Korea a 2-1 victory over Portugal and a place in the last 16.

Son Heung-min | AP

Son played in the tournament wearing a black facemask to protect a broken left eye socket picked up in a Champions League game on Nov. 2.

After the loss, Son pointed out who he thinks will be the next players to lead South Korea. He singled out to Lee Kang-in and Paik Seung-ho. Paik came in and scored as a substitute against Brazil in his first World Cup action.

"I am grateful that our young players showed what they are capable of doing on this stage and also the potential for what they could do in the future," Son said. "I hope they get even better."

South Korea has qualified for the Asian Cup, but will receive tough competition from Japan, Australia and Saudi Arabia — all World Cup qualifiers. The event, scheduled for January 2024, was moved to Qatar after China withdrew, citing COVID-19.

India women without head coach as Powar removed

GOMESH S @ Chennai

65 DAYS — that is how much time is left before the senior women's T20 World Cup gets underway in South Africa. As teams have already begun their preparations for the marquee tournament, India will be starting theirs on Friday against the reigning world champions Australia in Mumbai. However, going into the series, the Harmanpreet Kaur-led side will not have a head coach.

Ramesh Powar, who was holding the post for over the last 15 months, became the former head coach in the BCCI's press release. According to the statement, Powar would be joining the National Cricket Academy as a spin coach while Hrishikesh Kanitkar was named as the batting coach of the team for the five-match T20I series against Australia.

Kanitkar is not new to the Indian team. He had been travelling with them since the Sri Lanka tour in June, as a part of the NCA coaching staff. He had been in the role, which the BCCI officially named him full-time on Tuesday, for the past few months, including the Commonwealth Games. Up until the ODI World Cup in New Zealand, it was SS Das, who was taking care of the batting department as a coach.

Ramesh Powar

As far Powar, according to the BCCI's statement, the move comes as a part of the restructuring module. But if that is all it was, there are questions about the timing of the decision. To remove the head coach of the senior national team two months before the World Cup does not seem like a routine restructuring decision. At various points over the past 12 months, Powar has come under the scrutiny of various selection calls, tactical decisions, etc. Under him, India lost to England, Australia and New Zealand in the lead-up to the 2022 ODI World Cup, where they faced an early exit. It was expected that he might be removed after the World Cup when his contract ended, but Powar was retained as the Indian team reached the final of the CWG.

Washington in focus as India aim for comeback

GOMESH S @ Chennai

AS India lost their way after reducing Bangladesh to 136/9 in the first ODI, the first question after their defeat on Sunday was why Rohit Sharma did not use Washington Sundar to take the final wicket. The off-spinning all-rounder up until that point had given away just 17 runs in five overs and dismissed two key batters. However, he did not bowl after that even as the hosts went after the pacers.

While the reasons remains unclear, what seems to be getting clear is that he is grabbing every chance that is coming his way in his second coming. In the absence of Ravindra Jadeja, he seems to be filling in the role of the left-hander who can also bowl in the middle-order. His cameo with the bat in New Zealand came in handy for India. Former India and Tamil Nadu leg spinner Laxman Sivaramakrishnan feels that Washington is the one for the future. "He is definitely a genuine all-rounder. You can depend on him to get runs, in fact, he can bat at no. 5, maybe 6. He can stabilise things in the middle," said Sivaramakrishnan in an interaction facilitated by Sony Sports Network.

Actor Bhavana Rao recently made her Hindi debut with web series Dharavi Bank, also starring Suniel Shetty and Vivek Oberoi. With CE, she shares some behind-the-scene moments

THE RISING STAR

MONIKA MONALISA

IN Dharavi Bank, a web series starring biggies from Bollywood like Suniel Shetty and Vivek Oberoi, city-based actor Bhavana Rao plays the character of a lawyer. Sounds simple, right? However, her background brings in twists to the tale as she hails from a family of gangsters which is headed by Thalaivan and played by Shetty.

A powerful script with a strong star cast, Rao calls it a dream project to be making her debut in the Hindi film industry. Recalling the time when she auditioned for it, Rao says the story picked her. "This was during the second lockdown. A casting agency sent me a couple of scripts to enact and I recorded my part. I had been auditioning earlier too but nothing was working out," says Rao, adding that when she got the call for this show, she was in disbelief. "I was getting bored. To distract myself I started working on my craft. I would pick a scene from films or web series that were releasing and would enact it my way. They probably liked that sincerity," she says.

Bhavana Rao with Suniel Shetty

In the series, Rao plays the role of Shetty's daughter. "In Season 1, I don't have many scenes with him, but I hope we have more scenes in Season 2. My first day of shooting was with him. Everyone was asking me if I was nervous, actually I was not because I was clear about what I had to do. So I think my confidence came with clarity," she adds.

Although she does not have many scenes with Shetty, she still cherishes the time she spent with him. "I was chatting with him constantly. I was asking if he comes to Mangaluru, and he said he visits his ancestral place at least once in a year. His son's movie Tadap was released when we were shooting. He would search for the movie on the internet and show it to us like a proud father, forgetting that he himself is such a huge star," she says with a laugh.

Being a part of the Kannada and Tamil movie industries, Rao finds a vast difference in the way southern industries and Bollywood work. "The Hindi industry is quite fast-paced. I used to tease my director Samit Kakkad that he is never hungry or needs a break. In southern industries, everything is so well planned. At 1:30pm, we break for lunch or take a break for evening snacks. Here, we mostly start early but on Hindi film sets, they start late and wrap up late. But work-wise, the ethics are the same. Everyone wants to do good work, in both the industries people are sincere," she adds.

As of now, she has two Sandalwood movies for release. "In Hindi, they are noticing me now, hopefully, I am going to get more good work," she concludes optimistically.

Keeping a healthy mind

FLYLEAF

VR FEROSE

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

ONE of the most important lessons I learnt from Aparna Piramal, author of Chemical Khichdi, was to 'separate the person from the illness'. In Chemical Khichdi, Piramal, who has been wrestling with bipolar disorder for years, presents a helpful pathway to those with a mental health condition and their loved ones. The book offers the message that one can live and thrive with a severe disorder. Another book that captures the struggles with the manic highs and depressive lows of bipolar disorder, and its impact on caregivers, is Jerry Pinto's Em and Big Hoom.

Mental illnesses have been around for as long as humans have. Our society is only now beginning to understand the importance of discussing mental health. When actor Deepika Padukone spoke about her struggles with depression, it brought the topic to the mainstream.

The numbers are depressing. Globally there is a suicide every 40 seconds; in India it is every 17 seconds. India has one-third the world's cases of depression, alcoholism and suicides, while only 0.6% of our overall health budget is dedicated to mental health. About 60-70% of those in jails have a mental health problem, which indicates that early intervention could have nipped crime in the bud.

In a survey on mental health in the workplace (conducted in 2019, with 829 respondents whose average age was 30 and most of whom had full-time jobs), one in two people answered yes to the question on whether they had a mental health issue – anything from worry and stress to diagnosed illnesses such as anxiety and depression. Two out of three said they knew someone at their workplace with a mental health issue; however, most of them said they rarely or never discussed mental health among themselves (some of these discussions have just started in major corporations). A report by the WHO estimates that depression and anxiety disorders cost the world economy US$ 1 trillion annually in lost productivity.

Mental health impacts every aspect of our lives, affecting how we think and feel, guiding us in our decisions and governing how we act around other people. Poor mental health also directly affects our physical health, making us more susceptible to certain chronic physical conditions.

The deeply-researched book This is Depression by psychiatrist Dr Diane McIntosh is considered the go-to on this topic. She takes readers through common causes of depression, how it is diagnosed and the many possible treatment options. For a more scientific understanding of depression, Siddharth Mukherjee's new book The Song of the Cell examine show depression could possibly be traced to abnormalities in neurons in the brain.

I recently met someone suffering from long-term effects of past trauma, which led me to read the New York Times bestseller The Body Keeps the Score by renowned trauma expert Bessel van der Kolk. The book offers a bold new paradigm for healing. Trauma is all-pervasive: veterans and their families deal with the painful aftermath of combat; one in five Americans has been molested; one in four grew up with alcoholics; one in three couples have engaged in physical violence. This insightful book transforms our understanding of traumatic stress, revealing how it literally rearranges the brain's wiring. Dr Bessel shows how these areas can be reactivated through innovative treatments including neurofeedback, mindfulness techniques, play and yoga.

Sometimes, the worst place you can be is in your head! And there should be no shame in discussing mental illness and seeking support and intervention.

FOOTBALL THROUGH THE EYES OF A CRICKET FAN

HRIDAY RANJAN

Urban Bourbon

(Writer, comedian)

AMIDST the cricket tourneys that spring up like unwanted mushrooms, the FIFA World Cup is a breath of fresh air. It gives us a break from the drone-like commentary of Sunil Gavaskar and Sanjay Manjarekar – which has served me as an excellent panacea for insomnia.

I am not a die-hard football fan. My friends have been supporting clubs for years now. But I find that life is too short to support one team for a decade. Much to the chagrin of my friends, I keep supporting a new club every year.

Unlike the cricket World Cup, you don't see a million hoardings selling everything from live streaming to life insurance during football World Cup. Every brand from inhalers to toothpastes draw out an asinine connection to cricket to peddle their wares. I like the detached enthusiasm that a football World Cup brings. I say this as someone scarred by the 'Biscuit Khao World Cup Jao' campaign that took place 20 years ago. As a kid, I believed that God had plans for me in life. I was convinced that I would win the contest and fly to London to watch the World Cup. I was unbothered by realities like the lack of a passport or visa. I spent the next two months eating biscuits. I requested my neighbours to save their wrappers for me. At the end of the vacation, I had won a grand total of one booklet and three chewing gums!

A football World Cup is saner. The craze in India peaks once every four years. It's interesting that the only two states where football reigns supreme are the Communist states – West Bengal and Kerala. I have wondered why Indian communists took to football in such a big way. Perhaps it's the socialist nature of the sport. The team is valued more than the talent of an individual. Unlike cricket, which is mostly only played by nations that were colonised by the British, football is played by all nations. On one side you have the colonisers like England, France and Germany. On the other hand, you have nations from Africa and South America that had to pay the cruel price of colonisation. Perhaps communists view football as a level-playing field, a way to revolt against their oppressors.

The biggest reason for my love for the football World Cup is that I can watch it as a neutral. The mix of sports and jingoism has ruined the experience of cricket. Failure on the field, or speaking cordially to an opponent is looked at as betrayal. If only we questioned our politicians as much as we did our cricketers, we could have become a superpower. The football World Cup gives me an option to watch a sport without bringing emotions into the matter. I was initially supporting Germany, but they crashed out of the tournament. I didn't spend the rest of the day in despair. I quietly had dinner and decided to support France from the next day. Following a cricket World Cup requires the unbridled passion of Che Guevara. Whereas a football World Cup needs the stoic grace of Marcus Aurelius!

Nihal

'I might be one film old, but I have been in this industry for nine years'

CE FEATURES

FOR Nihal playing the living legend and businessman Vijay Sankeshar on the big screen is a big deal. The one-film-old actor, who marked his debut with Trunk, calls it a fanboy's wish fulfilled. It was the actor's initiative that brought this film directed by Rishika Sharma a reality. "Coming from North Karnataka, (Hubli, Dharwad), I grew up listening to my father talk about the inspirational works of Vijay Sir, and his son Anand. It got stuck in my mind for a long time. Maniratnam's Guru, which I watched during my school days, was another inspiration. I'm a keen follower of biopics and they are my favourite genre. Incidentally, I got to be part of one such subject, " says Nihal, who considers himself lucky to play the role of Vijay Sankeshwar in Vijayanand.

"It was after Trunk, Rishika, and I were discussing our next, and I popped up the idea of doing a biopic of Vijay Sankeshwar. After much thought, and a week into the initial discussion, Rishika felt it was the best project to take off, and we went ahead," says Nihal.

Initially, Nihal and the director visited Vijay Sankeshwar, only to get the rights of making his biopic, but eventually the latter decided to make the film under his VRL Production marking their maiden venture. "Only when I gave them the 8th draft, Vijay sir decided to take up the project, With Vijay's son Anand Sankeshwar stepping in, the film has lifted by ten folds. We considered it as a blessing," he says.

For a one-film-old actor, isn't this biopic of Vijay Sankeshwar a bit early in Nihal's career, did he feel capable to pull off this role of a legendary person? "I want to be one of the top actors not only in Karnataka but also in India, for which I had to portray something with 'unique' roles. Secondly, I have been in this industry for 9 years and I have not been given an opportunity. I started my career in 2012 beginning with theatre, as an anchor, got into serials, and worked as a character artiste, as a villain. It is only after Trunk, I was offered Vijayanand. According to the audience, I'm still a beginner, but I have also had my share of experience before reaching here. It is nothing but self-confidence that helped me to pull off this role," he says.

Nihal has three looks in the film and for the middle age getup, the actor had to put on 22 kgs. "I have not tried to imitate Vijay Sankeshwar, but keeping his signature moves in mind, we have created a character. As a team, we did 18 months of preparation and referred to articles and photos worth 250 GB. All the actors attended 45 days of the workshop for their respective roles. I wanted to represent Vijay Sankeshwar, on screen, and nowhere exhibit my personality," he says.

Nihal strongly feels that the story of Vijay Sankeshwar should be told to the world. "Through this film, Vijayanand, our aim was to inspire youngsters and anyone who watches the film. Success doesn't have a shortcut, it is a life lesson to be learned through the life of Vijay Sankeshwar and his son. Their work is more like a guide to many upcoming entrepreneurs."
